Cut Asked in Health Costs

President Also Recommends Extensive TV, Radio Projects

WASHINGTON (AP) —President Johnson told Congress today he wants the government to seek ways to lower health costs.

He also called for action to promote the expansion of noncommercial television and radio, including especially education programs.

In a special message on education and health, Johnson announced that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare will hold a national conference on medical costs "to discuss how we can lower the costs of medical services without impairing the quality."

The President also recommended that Congress create a Corporation for Public Television that would use both public and private funds to support noncommercial broadcasting, both via television and radio.

'Economic Advantage'

Picking up an idea that has been advocated by the Ford Foundation, which has urged establishment of such a corporation, Johnson recommended a study of "the practicality and the economic advantages of using communication satellites to establish an educational television and radio network."

These were the highlights of the multipoint message in which Johnson emphasized that this was the keynote:

"I do not recommend more of the same—but more that is better: to solve old problems, to create new institutions, to fulfill the potential of each individual in our land."

The President noted that average hospital costs have more than tripled since 1950 and that other medical expenses have risen sharply.

For that reason, he said, he wants a national conference to bring together leaders of the medical community and members of the public to try to find ways to reverse the upward trend.

Lower Hospital Costs

In addition, Johnson said, the new National Center for Health Services Research and Development will concentrate first on seeking "new ways to improve

Funds Sought For 'Rover' Development

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today for money to begin the development of a nuclear-powered rocket engine, "The Rover."

For this and other scientific projects, Johnson asked $149.8 million for use in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

In addition to the nuclear-powered rocket engine, Johnson asked funds for a physics laboratory for basic physical and biochemical research and a specialized facility for further exploration into controlled thermonuclear fission as a potential source of electricity.

"The projects will advance America's ability to harness atomic energy for the peaceful exploration of space," Johnson stated. "They will also help us chart new courses in nuclear science."

Johnson said development of a nuclear-powered rocket engine will take time, and that present plans call for delivery of the first test model in about 1971.

Knowles Caller Warns of Death

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles, who is out of the state attending meetings, was threatened Saturday by an unidentified person in a telephone call, the governor's office disclosed Monday.

Paul Hassett, executive secretary to the governor, said the caller quickly ended the call before the source could be traced. Authorities were summoned to the executive mansion, but there was no incident, Hassett said.

Hassett said the caller warned: "The governor will be dead by noon tomorrow."

Goldberg Denies Trip to Rangoon

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said today he is not visiting Rangoon on his current Asian tour despite the presence there of a three-man North Vietnamese diplomatic mission and U.N. Secretary-General U Thant.

The chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations said he had no information about the North Vietnamese group, which arrived in Rangoon over the weekend. Thant is on vacation in his native Burma.

Goldberg flew today to Taipei for talks with Chinese Nationalist President Chiang Kai-shek and other officials on a fact-finding tour that will also take him to South Vietnam and the Philippines.

Killed in Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department said Monday that Marine Cpl. Steven O. Perlewitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Perlewitz of Algoma, Wis., has been killed in action in Vietnam.

Heart Attack Fatal to Luce, 'Time' Founder

Unexpected Death Follows Admission To Phoenix Hospital

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) —Henry R. Luce, editorial chairman of Time Inc., died early today in a Phoenix hospital of a massive coronary attack. He was 68.

Luce, who maintained a winter home here, had appeared in robust health last Tuesday night when he attended a dinner in honor of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and his wife.

A few days later Luce also spoke in Tucson on behalf of a nationwide Presbyterian Church drive to raise $50 million. There was no apparent indication of illness at that time, his associates said.

He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital Monday afternoon, but there was no immediate word on the reason for his entering the hospital.

New Direction

Luce, born of missionary parents in China, founded Time a weekly news magazine, in 1923 with Briton Hadden, and started a new direction in journalism.

Hadden died in 1929. Under Luce, Time continued to prosper, growing in circulation and influence. The firm today publishes Time, Life, Fortune and Sports Illustrated, plus a wide range of books.

Luce's widow is Clare Boothe Luce, editor and writer, playwright, former ambassador to Italy, and former Connecticut congresswoman.

Luce resigned in April 1964 as

Committee Changes, Approves Kellett Bill

Deadline for Merger of Conservation, Resources Moved Back Three Years

BY TIM WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The Kellett plan to reorganize Wisconsin government was reorganized itself Monday, but its passage nevertheless was recommended to the Legislature by the Joint Committee on Finance in a recognizable form. The vote for passage, as amended, was 10 to 4.

Amendments to the plan and unsuccessful attempts at changing it came from areas where the most intense political pressures had been aroused by interest groups representing affected agencies.

In a marathon meeting stretching into the night, members of the legislative committee voted to extend by three years the deadline for a proposed merger of the State Conservation Department and the Department of Resource Development into a new natural resources agency, and to remove all motor carrier regulation powers from the proposed Department of Transportation and return them to a re-created Public Service Commission.

Also passed were recommendations continuing the existence of the Department of Veterans Affairs in its present form and creating a division to handle the functions of the State Commission on Aging in a new social services department.

The lawmakers also defeated attempts to prohibit merger of the resource agencies and of the State Health and Public Welfare departments into the proposed Department of Social Services.

The actions came during an executive session of the joint committee — which considers identical bills pending in each house of the Legislature —

1,500 Marines Sweep Ashore

Little Resistance By Viet Cong on S. Vietnam Coast

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Marines made an end run on South Vietnam's central coast today, pulling out of one operation area and making a new landing 16 miles farther up the coast.

The battalion landing team of 1,500 Marines met no resistance as amtracks and helicopters put it ashore on beaches 21 miles south of Quang Ngai City.

Across the country near Cambodia, the 45,000-man U.S. force driving through Communist War Zone C reported killing 27 more of the enemy as Operation Junction City, the biggest sweep of the war, neared the end of the first week. This raised the enemy toll to 89 dead.

Five Americans were reported slightly wounded Monday when a bomb from a U.S. jet fell too close to an advancing unit.

A unit of the 1st Infantry Division taking part in Junction City uncovered a large Viet Cong base camp containing 22 structures and 142 underground fortifications.

The jungle campaign was supported by another heavy raid—the sixth so far—by B52 bombers, which struck early today at an enemy base camp 17 miles west of Tay Ninh City.

Little ground activity was reported elsewhere.

Court Holds Firm On Alfonsi Ruling

MADISON (AP) — The Wisconsin Supreme Court refused to waver today in its decision overturning the bribery conviction of Assemblyman Paul Alfonsi, R-Minocqua.

Without comment, the court turned down a bid by the state to win a rehearing on the Jan. 10 ruling.

Senator Asks Declaration of War if Escalation Continues

Sen. Clark Attacks LBJ's Defense of River Minings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph S. Clark pressed today for Senate acceptance of his proposal to require the United States to declare war on North Vietnam before U.S. bombing attacks against the North can continue.

Clark attacked U.S. policy in Vietnam in a three-hour Senate speech Monday as President Johnson told newsmen he doesn't think new types of American attacks on the north have dimmed peace hopes.

Clark, a Pennsylvania Democrat, is offering his war declaration proposal as an amendment to the administration's $4.5 billion supplemental military authorization bill for Vietnam.

The House has passed the authorization measure. Clark said he would ask a vote today on the bombing amendment and on another that would require a war declaration if U.S. forces in Vietnam exceed 500,000 men.

The President, who met with newsmen in the Oval Room of the White House, responded carefully to a question asking if U.S. mining of North Vietnam rivers plus Army and Navy artillery bombardment of the north represented a step-up in U.S. military activities.

Johnson was emphatic in denying the moves were a "step-up" or escalation, but said, "It is fair to say that this is action over and above what has been taking place in the last few weeks. Certainly it is more far-reaching."

He said the goal of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam has been to hinder North Vietnamese military activities and not to halt infiltration altogether. "We never thought it would stop infiltration," he said.

The bombing has been successful, he said, because it has tied up some 500,000 North Vietnamese in repairing bomb damage. These people might otherwise have been active militarily, he added.

Johnson said U.S. policy remains aimed at producing peace.

Congress produced both praise and criticism Monday for the decision to mine North Vietnamese waterways.

Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, said the aim of U.S. policy apparently "is to make North Vietnam uninhabitable by men, women, children and even the water buffalo." He protested the new military move.

But it drew praise from Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the House Armed Services Committee, who said he would like to see the major North Vietnam port of Haiphong mined as well.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., went even further. Speaking in Little Rock, McClellan said he would like to see "every military installation of the enemy bombed" and said this would shorten the war.

Oswald, Probe Suspect Linked

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison has been given information that Lee Harvey Oswald and a man wanted for questioning in the Kennedy assassination investigation were picked up together by police here in 1963, the States-Item reported today.

The States-Item first reported that Oswald's companion was David W. Ferrie, identified by Garrison as a central figure in his investigation. But the newspaper said later the second man was not Ferrie.

Before he was found dead last Wednesday, Ferrie had insisted he did not know Oswald, named by the Warren Commission as the man who killed President John F. Kennedy in Dallas, Tex., Nov. 22, 1963.

The States-Item reported that Garrison's investigators were told by a New Orleans law officer that he found two men sitting in a parked car near Lake Pontchartrain early one morning in the fall of 1963.

One of the men identified himself as Oswald, the officer said. The States-Item reported in its first edition that the officer — after seeing Ferrie's body — said Ferrie positively was the second man. Later the newspaper said the second man was not Ferrie, but apparently was connected with another aspect of the Garrison probe.

The officer took the pair to

Truck Bombed in Natchez

Negro Leader Killed by Blast

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP) — Gov. Paul B. Johnson Jr. today branded the bombing death of Wharlest Jackson, a Natchez Negro civil rights leader, as a "heinous and senseless murder." The City of Natchez offered a $25,000 reward for the arrest of those responsible for the explosion which ripped Jackson's truck apart Monday night.

A father of six children, Jackson, 36, was killed as he drove home from work. His wife said she was baffled by the crime, because civil rights activity had died down in Natchez.

"It was dirty white people here in Natchez, that's all," Mrs. Jackson said. "It was evil because he didn't bother nobody. I didn't know his job was that important that someone had to kill him." Only last week Jackson assumed a job formerly held by white men.

'Act of Savagery'

In a statement, Gov. Johnson said: "The citizenry of Mississippi abhors this act of savagery which stains the honor of our state."

Police Chief J. T. Robinson said he believed a bomb had been planted beneath Jackson's truck. The explosion was similar to the one that critically injured George Metcalfe, president of the Natchez branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in August, 1965.

Both Metcale and Jackson worked for the Armstrong Tire and Rubber Co. plant. Jackson was treasurer of the Natchez NAACP branch until last month.

Charles Evers, Mississippi field secretary for the NAACP, said a protest meeting would be held in Natchez tonight. "We don't take it that easy," he said, referring to a meeting Monday night at which the reward was approved, and Natchez business leaders pledged $1,000 to start a fund for Jackson's family.

Boycott Foreseen

Evers said he would try to organize a nationwide boycott against the Armstrong company, which he said he blames for "hiring Ku Kluxers."

City and county officials issued a statement condemning the slaying in "the strongest way at our command." They asked the FBI and the State Highway Patrol to join the investigation.

Jackson, driving through a Negro residential section, had covered about half of the 20-block distance between the plant and his home when the explosion went off.

Police began an immediate investigation and impounded the wrecked truck.

The gasoline tank of the truck did not explode, Robinson said. There was no fire. The cab was blown away by the blast.

Czarist Fortune at Stake

Woman Fails to Prove That She Is Anastasia

HAMBURG, Germany (AP) — The Hamburg Superior Court today rejected the claim of 66-year-old Anna Anderson that she is Grand Duchess Anastasia, youngest daughter of the last Russian czar.

Mrs. Anderson's lawyer announced the decision would be appealed to the West German Supreme Court. It will be her last chance for legal recognition.

It was the third postwar setback for the mysterious woman whose claim first became known in 1920 when she was rescued from a suicide attempt in the Landwehr Canal in Berlin.

The Hamburg court, which has been taking testimony over a period of three years, rejected Mrs. Anderson's appeal against a 1961 decision.

Failed in Proof

The court then ruled that Mrs. Anderson had failed to prove her identity as the grand duchess but also that her opponent in the case, Princess Barbara Duchess of Mecklenburg, had failed to prove her contention that Mrs. Anderson was a Polish peasant named Franziska Schanzkowski.

At stake in the case is $28 million of Romanoff family fortune believed to have been deposited in the Bank of England before Czar Nicholas II and his family were slain by the Bolsheviks July 17, 1918. A Berlin court in 1933 ruled that Princess Barbara's family was entitled to inherit the Romanoff fortune.

Court President Gustav Petersen announced today that Mrs. Anderson had failed to prove in a manner satisfactory to German legal principles that she was the grand duchess.

Lengthy Opinion

He said the court was not able at this time to give a detailed analysis of its decision. He said in view of the extensive testimo-

Scouts Test First Aid Skills

It looked like a disaster area, but it wasn't. The scene in the St. Mary Catholic gym Saturday afternoon was a lesson in how to treat the results of accident and disaster, and the almost 400 participating Cadette Girl Scouts from the Fox River Area Council proved their poise and know-how by responding quickly and skillfully to the problems posed them.

The First Aid-A-Rama is an annual event at which the Scouts can test their First Aid knowledge and pit their know-how and reasoning ability against girls working in other patrols. There were 22 troops represented in the event, with girls attending from Seymour, Shawano, Clintonville, New London, Neenah, Menasha, Little Chute, Waupaca, Kimberly, Iola and Appleton.

Judging the timing and skill of the scouts were men and women representing the fire and police departments, teachers, ambulance personnel, Red Cross, senior Girl Scouts and registered nurses. Frederick Ziemann was chairman of the project, assisted by Dr. Allan Talbot, Neenah, as co-chairman.

Winners of Blue ribbons, or A ratings, were Troops 174, New London: 138, Clintonville: 9, Appleton: 84, Waupaca: 14, Kimberly: 110, Neenah: 138, Clintonville: 347, Neenah: 31 Little Chute: 110, Neenah: 14, Kimberly: 332, Appleton, and 334, Appleton. The patrols finished in that order in number of points scored throughout the afternoon.

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP) — An Indian princess of the Shinnecock tribe is fighting for women's rights in the tribe's reservation at this Long Island community.

Princess Nowanda, who claims to be a descendant of Chief Sachem Wyandanch, says women should have the right to vote in the tribal elections each April to select three trustees of the reservation.

The trustees say they will continue to permit only the men to vote in the tribal elections.

Princess Nowanda, also known as Lois Hunter, has filed a complaint with the Suffolk County Human Relations Commission, which is studying the case.

The Rev. Arthur Bryant, pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran church in nearby Greenport and vice chairman of the Human Relations Commission, plans to meet the princess to discuss the case.

Indian women can vote in county, state and national elections.

The Rev. Mr. Bryant said, "According to McKinney's consolidated Indian laws of New York State pertaining to the Shinnecock tribe, there is a law of 1892 which amounts to an agreement between the Township of Southampton and the Shinnecock tribe. It states that on the first Tuesday in April each year the male members of the tribe may elect three trustees from members of the tribe who have resided on the reservation for the previous six months."

The Rev. Mr Bryant said that John Hathorn, director of the New York State Interdepartmental Committee on Indian Affairs, advised the Suffolk Human Relations Commission that the Mohawk and St. Regis tribes of upstate New York have had women suffrage for many years.

"And last year the male members of the Senecas voted in a referendum to give the right to vote to their women," the Rev. Mr. Bryant said

"We find that the New York Legislature probably has control over the Shinnecock law, but it's preferable for the Indians to express the desire to change their own law rather than have it come from outside."

The Rev. Mr Bryant said that one of the reservation trustees, Hary Williams, told him Sunday that he didn't believe this is a problem for the Suffolk Human Relations Commission and that there is no desire on the part of the trustees to pursue the matter any further

The Rev. Mr. Bryant said he plans to continue looking into the matter because "we have the complaint of a citizen in our hands who is asking for full citizenship rights."

Snowdons Ignore Gossip; Plan Vacation in Bahamas

NEW YORK (AP) — Lord Snowdon, emphatically denying divorce rumors, is looking forward today to joining his wife, Princess Margaret, in the Bahama Islands for a brief winter vacation.

"How do they start?" he asked, referring to the rumors. Then, with an infectious grin, he said, "It's news to me, and I would be the first to know."

He is meeting his wife, sister of Queen Elizabeth II of England, in the Bahamas March 9. He declined to say how long he would stay in New York or where they would vacation in the islands.

Thereafter, he said, they would go on together to London.

He flew to New York Sunday night from Tokyo. He had been working in Japan for four weeks on what he called an "essay" with text and photographs of Japanese life. Lord Snowdon is a professional photographer.

He said that during his absence, he and Princess Margaret had corresponded regularly. In fact, he added, his latest letter to her was written on the airplane coming from Tokyo and mailed in Seattle, Wash.

The princess displayed no outward concern with the rumors Monday night as she attended the charity premiere of a new film version of Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew."

Amherst Hall Has Basement Facilities Renovated by Clubs

AMHERST — The Amherst Womans Club, assisted by members of the Tomorrow River Youth Council have nearly completed renovation of the basement in the community hall.

The project included painting the ceiling, walls and woodwork.

The club heid it's February meeting at the home of Winifred Harvey. Wayne Parnham, U S. Coast Guard, on leave from Alaska, showed colored slides and told of life aboard ship.

A "unique hat show" was presented by members, who modeled hats made from kitchen utensils, ribbons, flowers, leaves, doilies, birds nests and eggs.

The club voted to continue sponsoring the Girl Scouts and are asking for volunteer leaders.

British Gardener Believes In Suiting Garden to Self

Here's a thought for spring gardeners as they sharpen their pruning shears:

Ameicans would be better gardeners, if they didn't try to keep up with their neighbor's garden, says Gordon Blinco, 51, fifth generation English gardener, who is in the United States on a lecture tour. The bright blue-eyed, bearded ex - Navy man is quick to add:

"I don't want anyone to think I'm going to tell Americans how to have English gardens. I'm not. I'm planning to show them how they can enjoy American gardens." Blinco's six - month tour will take him to 34 cities. His talks include illustrated color slides of British gardens.

Own Enjoyment

There's one leaf to be taken though from the British — grow what one enjoys seeing on one's own land. Never mind what the people next door are doing or whether the plants are fashionable. If the patch is only a couple of violets and a fruit tree, enjoy it.

Blinco converted a 30 - acre woodland into a 30-acre rhododendron park for Sir Reginald Plunket - Ernle - Erle Drax on a 500 - acre estate, Charborough, that was walled in.

"The fun of a garden should come from your own enjoyment of it. A tiny patch may be kept going year after year with perennials. The trend to hanging plants and the opportunity to grow flowers — ivy, ageratum, fuschias, geraniums, and so on — in window boxes permits anyone to become a gardener.

Cleaned Boots

It is easier to garden indoors and outdoors with all the new products available; but, Blinco wouldn't trade the knowledge that he earned, gardening from the ground up. At 14, he was earning 5 shillings a week, cleaning the head gardener's boots on an estate at Cardiff, Wales.

"I got to do a little more — take in his coal, chop his kindling, and bring in the vegetables which I was allowed to clean. I could also follow him around."

In other jobs, he learned about vines, fruit trees, grafting as he kept his "mouth shut and ears open."

It took him 10 years to become a head gardener with 17 assistants. His own specialty is indoor (greenhouse) fruit raising that includes espalier and fan training.

"I learned my trade with the sweat of my brow and the break of my back; but, I loved my work. There are fellows with degrees who know more about technical things of a garden, but they are cold - blooded as fish about it all," says Blinco.

And that's one of the secrets: love a garden — keep it healthy and it will produce for you.

The ideal garden is one where you don't see everything at a glance. You discover a bit of baby's breath or lobelia as you peek around at a snapdragon.

Blinco, who has become a consultant in the United States to Bissell, makers of garden tools, is a firm believer, too, that the right tools help make gardening easier.

"Try them for weight and balance and keep them in condition after you purchase them. A man will take care of his electric drill that he uses indoors, but he's likely to leave garden tools rotting in the garden all winter. Clean tools go into the ground easier."

He has other tid-bits for gardeners.

Forget Colors

Discover perennials. Americans weary of gardening because they concentrate on planting annuals, and must begin anew each year. The longest period of good bloomers and a satisfying bed, tiny or large, is a herbaceous border of hardy perennials filled in with annuals and a background of hardy flowers used for cutting.

Forget about colors. A garden isn't planted the way a canvas is painted. There is no such thing as a bad color in nature or an ugly plant (unless it is neglected.) The hardest job would be to make flowers clash.

When planting vegetables, feed well and dig deep and you'll have a god harvest.

Hoe over all shrubs at least once a year.

Women can get satisfaction out of a garden by creating a compost heap from table leavings. Everything but hardwood that won't rot can go into it. Mix it with a "breakdown" substance.

Understand soil and fertilizers. Exclusive use of chicken manure will create potash loss that should be replaced.

Too Ambitious

Be content if you can care for only a few plants. I'd rather see a garden go to concrete rather than become straggly because the gardener was too ambitious in planting more than he could manage," says Blinco.

The most exciting gardens he ever worked were those at Longford Castle — a combination of Spanish and French gardening schools and the landscaping ideas of Capability Brown, the first great English landscape gardener. (He layed out open vistas with clumps of trees and water places, different from the traditional formal English gardens.)

Blinco stayed in the Navy after World War II for a few years and saw the garden sights of the world. He usually thinks of countries as brown or green, with England the greenest of them all. He has viewed New York's Central Park — "brown in its dormant state," but he expects surprises on his tour.

The Service Circle of The King's Daughters is busy with plans for sponsoring the movie, "Stop the World — I Want to Get Off". The musical will be shown only once in Appleton scheduled at 1:30 p.m. March 29 at the Viking Theater. The movie is billed as a Broadway musical on the screen. Proceeds are slated for the proposed Family Service Association. Planning above, are Mrs. Urban VanSusteren, Mrs. Norman Troemel and Mrs. Richard Pfefferle. Many women are planning to precede the movie with a luncheon. (Post-Crescent Photo)

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Posture Secret

All too few of us give a thought to our carriage. Yet good posture is vital to a good appearance.

Surely there would be less poor posture if we realized how destructive it is to loveliness. Let us count the ways it affects us:

With figure bulges. Strained by poor posture, the muscles develop fatty cushions. Hence the bulging knee, hip, abdomen, waist and upper back.

With aches and pains. The body protests incorrect management by kicking up a storm of aches in the back, feet and neck.

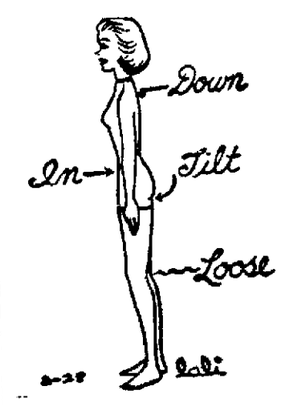

With threats to health. Normal breathing, circulation, digestion and positioning of the internal organs are disrupted by postural faults.

With fashion losses. Clothes look awkward when posture answers to the same description.

With loss of personality appeal. Gracelessness cannot reflect winning traits. More likely, it mirrors a lack of awareness and poise.

Obviously working for improved posture would be no whimsical pursuit To make a good beginning, draw the shoulders down and the chest up, retract the abdomen, tilt the pelvic cavity upward, and relax the knees.

That's all there is to it—the whole secret of alert and willowy posture. After faithful practice the stance becomes automatic. You look and feel light and lovely.

Glue-Sniffer's Girl Questions Whether Habit Is Dangerous

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am going with a young man who has a lot of ability and a great future, but he behaves so peculiarly at times it is frightening.

At first I thought he had been drinking. Last night he confessed that he has been sniffing glue.

He claims glue sniffing is not dangerous, not habit forming and it gives him a grand feeling of exhilaration. I have never known anyone who did this and I wish you would tell me if I am worrying needlessly, as he says. — Plenty Upset

Dear Plenty: Glue sniffing is a form of intoxication, only the sniffer uses toxic fumes instead of liquor.

It is indeed dangerous because the fumes can damage the liver as well as other vital organs, including the brain. It is not habit forming in the sense that it leads to addiction, but glue sniffers have a tendency to go from glue to narcotics in search of bigger kicks.

People have been seriously injured and killed while under the influence of glue because the judgment is often grossly distorted after several whiffs. Anyone who thinks glue sniffing is not a dangerous practice is kidding himself.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I would like to address this letter to all you middle-aged women who are feeling sorry for yourselves because your children are grown and no longer need you. No doubt you've been thinking of the past — longing to relive those days when the kids were running around the house, playmates coming and going, toys scattered all over, good night kisses and the whole bit.

Well, you've got short memories, Mommies, so I want to remind you of what it was really like because I am in the middle of those days right now and I know.

My three children are under six years of age and they are driving me nuts. Between the phone, the washing, the ironing, the marketing, the diapering, the refereeing, the cleaning, the cooking and the mending, I am ready to flip my wig.

Do I feel needed? No. I feel harassed, frustrated, and defeated.

You are lucky to have the work and worry behind you. I'm living for the day when my kids are grown and on their own. There, I hope you feel better. — Living Through It

Dear Living: What you need is one day a week off so you can enjoy your kids instead of feeling trapped. Make a trade-off arrangement with a friend or a relative if you can't afford a sitter, but for heaven's sake get some relief before you konk out.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know you are opposed to interfaith marriages because I heard you say so when you spoke in our high school a few years ago.

Now I am going with a young man whose religion is different from mine. I wish I could remember what you said — the reasons, I mean. Please go over them again. Thank you. — Undecided Girl

Dear Girl: The records show that individuals who share the same religious beliefs have five times as good a chance of staying married as those who do not. Since marriage is becoming increasingly risky (almost one out of three flop) it makes sense to start out on as solid a footing as possible. Marriage at its best, with everything going for you, is a tremendous challenge. Why begin with built-in trouble? Who needs it?

If you have trouble getting along with your parents. . .if you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Miss USA Says New York City Her First Love

EL CERRITO, Calif. (AP) — Maria Remenyi, "Miss U.S.A. 1966," and a gorgeous aspirant for a Ph.D. in physics, is deserting the University of California's Berkeley campus for Columbia University. The 21-year-old beauty says she is in love with New York City.

Maria, who dropped out as a Berkeley junior after winning her beauty title, says her decision to transfer to Columbia is a direct result of winning the contest.

Fell in Love

"I made my first trip to New York then and fell in love with the city," Maria said in an interview during a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Remenyi.

"Every time I go back I like it better. So, I'm enrolling at Columbia."

A Hungarian-born brunette, Maria said her year as Miss U.S.A. "has given me the unusual opportunity to study human relations while adding about $10,000 to help finance the six more years of school ahead."

Social Life Limited

She said her social life has been limited because of the constant pressure of travel schedules, with a chaperone.

But Maria admitted she was impressed with Latin-American men in her travels in South America.

"They are Latin," she exclaimed. "Suave, more exciting, more pizzaz-or maybe it is the entire atmosphere in South America."

Complete Education

Maria insisted she is anxious to get back to school. "I'm too young to get married and I want to complete my education first," she said.

"After that I'll consider marriage-if I meet the right young man."

He probably won't be a scientist, declared the beauty queen, who plans on becoming a Ph.D physicist.

"When I go out I don't like to talk about math."

Dale Guild to See Vietnam Film Strip

DALE — The Women's Guild of Zion United Church of Christ will see a film strip of Vietnam at its meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday.

The program is planned by Mrs. Louise Zehner, social activities chairman.

Guild members are taking part in sewing pajamas, bathrobes and pillow cases for the Winnebago Children's Home at Neilsville. Mrs. Clayton Burton is chairman of the project.

Hostesses for Thursday's meeting are Mrs. Gordon Scheisser, Mrs. Louise Scheisser and Mrs. Duane Sommer.

A Special Import collection of 12 outfits will be one of the features of the Friday evening cocktail hour style show sponsored by the Silver Cross Circle of The King's Daughters. The even, slated from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., will take place at Butte des Morts Golf Club. Three of the outfits to be modeled are shown here. At left, in the flamboyant manner of Valentino, is a double-face crepe dramatic pajama ensemble in orange and purple. The toga has one long sleeve, is lined in orange and worn over two-piece pajamas. At right is a simple strapless gown that emphasizes the new belt. The jacket is lined with golden coq feathers. Below, white is a shining entry to the evening scene. The cocktail ensemble is a brocade with a short flaring evening coat and an A-line dress that has a jeweled back closure.

Chemical Removes Old Stump

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: A few weeks ago, I had an oak tree (two feet diameter) sawed off about three inches above the ground. The center is quite rotten. Is there any chemical I can put on which will work for the rest of the winter and dissolve the stump by spring?

A: Pour full strength weed killer into the decayed center. Keep pouring at intervals to insure working down into the roots. If there is considerable good wood left, drill holes — the larger and longer the better — and fill them too. By spring, that stump should be ready for covering with new lawn.

Quicker: Fill, instead, with kerosene and ignite. Refill occasionally. This will smolder the stump into ashes in a short time. No good, however, if close to any buildings: smoke annoyance as well as fire risk.

Q: I would like to remove the glass from some old wooden storm sash I don't need any longer. How can I soften the old putty so I can remove it without danger to the glass?

A: Usually, old, dried putty comes right out. Just urge it with the tip of a pointed beer can opener or similar gadget. The only softening agent I can think of would be linseed oil. But its action, if any, would be very slow.

Q: After scrubbing mildrew off my siding, what can I put on to prevent future growth?

A: Wipe with a moderately strong bleach solution. Rinse after 10 minutes or so. This will kill spores which promote future mildew. When repainting, put a mildewcide in the paint or use a mildew resistant paint.

Q: My walls and woodwork were previously painted with Latex paint. The walls are fine, but the woodwork is chipping. If I paint over it, will the chipping continue?

A: It will. Obviously the paint was put on before the woodwork was properly prepared. Either it was glossy or greasy. Your only safe bet is to remove the remaining paint, then sand and clean the surface. Steel wool and turpentine are excellent. After this you should have no more problems.

Seed Catalogues Suggest Spring's Arrival, Jobs

BY VIVIAN BROWN

Seed catalogues are in the mails, a warming thought for the chilliest days.

It's a reminder that young people should think about summer job opportunities, and go early birding with the Robin.

They need not look too far afield for starters. A seed catalogue may provide ideas for a little nursery business, selling seedlings or plants, before summer jobs are ready. Flats or pots of seedlings may be started early, and if one doesn't find a summer job, there may be a little business worth expanding

You can sell flats of seedlings and make it pay, if you have plenty of space, such as a cellar. You can get higher prices for plants, and if space is limited, you will not need to grow as many to come out about the same in the cash box. Plants require more work and care. City dwellers can start seedlings of hardy plants in a bathroom, closet or in the kitchen.

Start Seedlings

These days, seed companies make it easier to start seedlings. A glance at a seed catalogue shows all sorts of starter paraphernalia. There are seed-sowing trays and peat pots that are good containers for transplanted seedlings There isn't the old fashioned method of trial and error in growing things. Most seed companies provide good instructions for bringing plants to maturity, and garden books may be obtained from the library. Some seedling flats may be heated to a steady warmth with an inexpensive electric heating cable that fits into a groove in the flat.

Grow Assortment

Size up market possibilities in your community. It is best to grow an assortment of flowers and vegetables if the market is small If it is a large market, stick to one plant You can give better care to one plant and get to know it so that it can be very successful.

Several years ago, a college student, living at home, made a profitable thing of growing tomatoes. She had decided to sell them as plants; but, she had started too many seedlings to bring all to maturity in her limited space. She sold off many seedlings, and later sold plants in two stages, receiving 15 cents for seedlings, 35 cents for plants about eight inches high and 75 cents for ready - to - plant tomatoes. The average gardener buys 6 to 10 tomato plants in suburban areas, she says.

Assess Garden Space

The year after her success with tomatoes, she added lettuce, but it didn't pay off so well.

She would like to grow one garden crop, such as a mass of Chinese show peas that are more or less a delicacy and sell them to the local vegetable market at maturity. The problem is that the yield is low for the amount of garden space that is required. They grow up wire screens like the sweet pea flower.

One may grow flowers and vegetables for profit, and then find that it becomes a hobby. You can then invest the monthly allowance on the project, without regretting it. The next step could be a little greenhouse, and the small beginning with seedlings may blossom into a full-grown career in horticulture.

Don't Try To Fake Too Much

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Never tell a man that you have caught a hundred-pound fish if twenty pounds is all he will believe. Follow the same principle at the bridge table when you're wondering what an opponent will believe.

East won the first trick with the ace of spades, and South dropped the king in the hope of persuading East that the spades were wide open. East knew that his partner had led his fourth-highest spade and that South therefore started with three spades higher than the fourspot. If South could afford to spare the king of spades, his other cards were the queen and jack of spades.

After some thought East shifted to the eight of hearts.

Opening lead — ♠ 4

South played the nine, and West followed with the ten. South played a low heart from dummy, allowing West to hold the trick.

This didn't stop the defense. West continued with the king of hearts, and South had to take this with dummy's ace. Now there was no side entry to the diamonds. West refused the first two diamond tricks, and South could get only two tricks in each suit. Down one.

Better Chance

South's play of the king of spades was so obviously phony that it steered East in the right direction. If South was so desperately trying to appear weak in spades, it had to be wrong for East to continue the suit.

An expert East might switch to hearts no matter which spade South played at the first trick, but against an average opponent South would have a better chance if he played the jack or queen of spades. East might lead another spade on the assumption that South was "unblocking" with Q-J-x of spades.

If East failed to knock out the ace of hearts, South would make the contract easily because he could use the ace of hearts as the entry to the diamonds. He would make four diamonds, two spades, two clubs, and one heart.

Daily Question

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes. You hold: S 10 6 3, H A 3 2, D K Q 9 8 5, C 5 2. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two spades. The hand is not quite good enough for a response of two diamonds, but is slightly too good for a response of one notrump. The raise is slightly more encouraging than a response of one notrump, and should therefore be preferred.

Easter Candy To be Sold by Sorority Unit

Members of the Phi Upsilon chapter of Beta Sigma Phi discussed plans for their Easter basket project when they met Thursday evening at the home of Miss Mary Muggeuthaler.

Sorority members will sell chocolate bars to raise funds for Easter baskets. These will be filled with candy and given to the City Welfare Department for distribution to needy children.

The chapter usually gives 100 baskets as its annual community service project.

The Swinging Set

BY SYLVIE REICE

I flew out to St. Louis with a group of theater critics to see "Midsummer Night's Dream" and "Oh What A Lovely War." I don't ordinarily fly hundreds of miles to see a show — but this was special.

It was The Repertory Theater of Loretto-Hilton which is on the campus of Webster College and allied with it. The company, in fact, has five Webster students and 16 equity actors — all doing what I feel was a "professional" job of acting. As Linton Gross, a freshman, said: I love this. I never responded especially to any of my studies, but now I know I want to be an actor!"

Anticipates Tour

Robin Goodfellow, a senior at Webster, who played a delightful Puck, was looking forward to the 13-week tour of Missouri for which he will get 15 credits and a salary. "If my thesis is acceptable," he added. "We have to write on some aspect of the work when we finish the tour."

The theater's story is dramatic in itself. The idea began as the dream and imagination of Jacqueline Grennan — (then Sister Jacqueline). Miss Grennan feels strongly that a college must not be separated from the community that educating society is their common quest. In 1962 she received $2 million dollars from Conrad Hilton, (who was educated by the Loretto Sisters) and her dream became a reality. The building which houses the Loretto-Hilton Theater is a marvel of modern theater techniques and classrooms. The balcony can be shut off into a lecture hall, and underneath the auditorium are special studios for student lectures and rehearsals.

Leaves Order

In January, Sister Jacqueline gave up her nun's habit and left the Sisters of Loretto to participate more in community life in "a responsible and productive way." She was given permission by the Catholic Church and retained as president of Webster College. When I met her, she was dressed in a metallic-blue-black dress, conversation ranged from psychiatry to Tennessee Williams'. She is brilliant, with a sharp smile and quick gestures. "The center's aim," she says, "is to get our students and our faculty involved in the real world of professional theater as opposed to the mock-heroic world of the educational theater." By giving students at Webster College the opportunity to work with and study under professionals, Miss Grennan is fulfilling that aim. According to Michael Flanagan, the energetic director of the Loretto-Hilton Center for the Performing Arts, "Similar programs exist only in a few universities in this country — such as Stanford, Wayne State and Catholic University — and then usually at the graduate level."

Mr. Flanagan took us on a tour of the theater, through the tunnels, the dressing rooms backstage, the carpentry room. In the underground studio two students were rehearsing their lines. In the "green room" a group of actors and students were having coffee, talking over a scene. We went on to see the scenic designers at work, spattering benches and trees used in the Midsummer Night's Dream."

Attract All Kinds

"We're interested in attracting all kinds of students to Webster College," said Jacqueline Grennan, "all kinds of faiths." The college, which used to be all girls, now has a number of male students. It would seem to be an atmosphere charged with forward thinking. And particularly for the individual interested in the theater, the opportunity to attend college and to function in a "real theater" is superb. As Michael Flanagan put it, it gives the student a chance to "experiment not only with the actuality of his talent, but also its potential."

We need more programs like this in our colleges. First, to give students a feeling for "real" theater — and secondly to "bring" theater to young people. Right now 40 per cent of audiences attending the Loretto-Hilton Center are high school and college students.

Committee Solution Wisest, Tells GOP

Former Gov. Thomson in Middle Of Powell Policy Controversy

BY FRANCES McKUSICK
Post Crescent Madison Bureau

WASHINGTON — Third Dist Rep and former Gov. Vernon W Thomson faced the unpleasant task today of explaining to the House Republican Conference why he believes the recommendations of the Committee to investigate Harlem's Adam Clayton Powell constitute "the wisest solution to the Powell problem."

Thomson, a member of the investigating group, commented that the leadership had given us a tough assignment and we will be glad to tell the conference why we signed the Powell report.

Speaking first of the $40,000 which the committee decided Powell had diverted to his own use from official business of the committee on Education and Labor of which Powell was the deposed chairman, the Wisconsin legislator said that the amount represented a "punishment" for Powell.

$22,000 Recovery

"By recommending that the sergeant-at-arms of the House deduct $1,000 a month from Powell's paycheck for the remainder of the 90th Congress, we will recover only $22,000," Thomson pointed out. "However, if Powell is re-elected, we could pass another resolution in the 91st Congress to continue the $1,000 monthly deduction until the entire $40,000 is paid.

"Then there is the possibility that if we tried to collect the entire $40,000 during the present Congress, Powell might decide not to return to the House, and then we would get nothing," continued Thomson.

"Further than that, we anticipate that the Justice Department will bring either civil or criminal action against Powell which could result in bringing a monetary judgment against him."

Celler's Comment

(At a press conference, the Post-Crescent asked Chairman Emanuel Celler, (D., N.Y.) how further levies could be made against him before the 90th Congress adjourned. Rep. Celler replied enigmatically, "You never pull up your britches until you reach the river.")

Thomson believes that no real purpose would be solved by unseating Powell and subsequently cancelling his salary, because, as the Wisconsin lawmaker commented, "Powell's constituency is inflamed. There is little doubt but that he would be re-elected, and then we would have the same problem to face all over again."

As it is, if the Powell investigating committee's recommendations are adopted by the Congress, he will not only lose his committee seniority, but he also will have to move out of his new offices in the Rayburn building and many "fringe benefits" will be canceled out, Thomson said.

Sympathy for Wife

Powell's estranged wife, Mrs. Marjorie Powell, struck a sympathetic note with Congressman Thomson when she appeared before the committee in response to its subpoena.

"Mrs. Powell was a soft-voiced, tragic figure," Thomson said. "She had no money, yet apparently was saddled with the bills of a husband who refused to see her or their son, and who ignored her pleas to talk over their situation. She wanted to bring their boy to the United States to live, but Powell refused to let her. She did not like the idea of being on the House of Representatives payroll when she was doing no work, yet checks were issued to her, another women apparently forged Mrs. Powell's signature, and Adam cashed them and presumably spent the money himself."

Thomson does not believe that House Republicans will adopt a formal "policy" on Powell during their conference today, but instead will use the occasion as a "fact-finding mission."

Others elected were Glenn Schwerke, blanket bum; John Stennis, hide gimlet; Wilmer Wagner, custodian of the crummy duffle bag; Assemblyman Harold Froehlich, shyster; Le Roy Ruwoldt, pill pusher; Henry Van Handel, sky pilot, and Ralph Sanders, tight wad for three years.

Appointed officers are LeRoy Ruwoldt, provost marshall; Carlton Peterson, shirt reader; Jerry Schilhable, jimmylegs; Walter Vandertie, hungry cootie; William Merkle, VFW booster chairman, Carl Melchert, scholarship chairman; Arthur Ziegler, hospitality chairman, and Carl Salentine, keeper of the crummy records.

Butter Supply Growing; Government Continues Buying Oleomargarine

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although production of butter is increasing, the government continues to make large purchases of margarine for donation to needy persons.

The Agriculture Department had bought very little margarine for this purpose before butter production dipped sharply last year and government surplus stocks were depleted. The welfare programs provided an outlet for butter; the department had been required to buy under a dairy price support program.

Since last July 1, the department has bought 43 million pounds of margarine at a cost of $6.3 million, including 3 million pounds purchased last Friday.

American Can To Expand in Paper Fields

Machine Project to Exceed $10 Million At Rothschild Plant

NEW YORK — A major expansion in the printing and writing paper fields will be launched by the American Can Company with a paper machine project exceeding $10 million at its Rothschild, Wis., mill.

Frank J. Graziano, vice president and general manager for manufacturing, said the new machine will be capable of daily production of 200 tons of high-quality business papers, including American Can's Starfire Offset.

The machine will be built by Allis-Chalmers at its Appleton plant.

Installation of the machine, scheduled for startup late in 1968, will more than double the Rothschild Mill's printing and business paper capacity. Conventional weights, ranging to 90 pounds, will be produced on the machine.

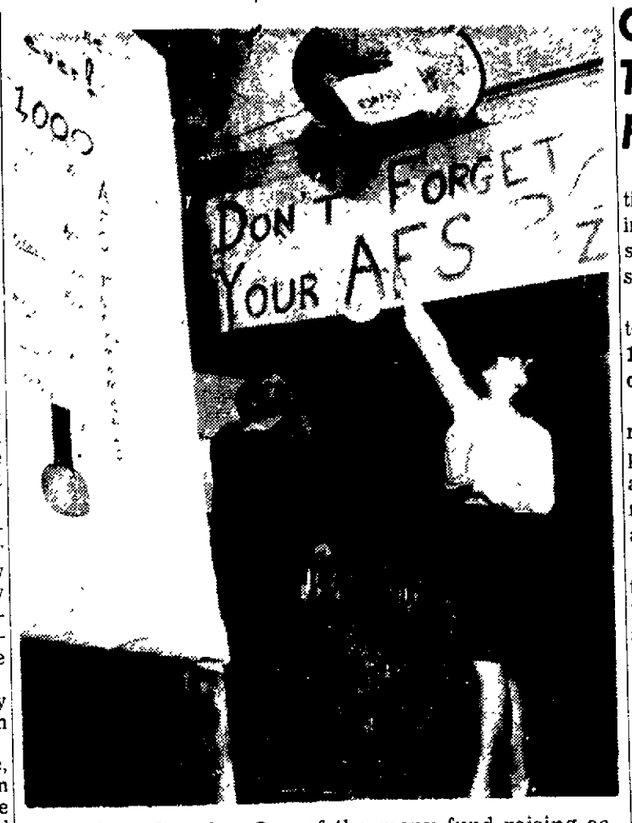

"This major expansion for our company in the fine paper field will enable us to greatly increase our service to customers," Sal J. Giudice, vice president for marketing American's household and industrial packaging, said.

Giudice pointed out that the marketing organization specializing in sale and distribution of American Can's Starfire Offset and other business papers will be expanded during the installation period.

The machine will be a conventional fourdrinier with standard dries and auxiliary equipment. Wire width will be 236 inches, with finished stock trimming to 210 inches

"New construction at the Rothschild Mill will include," John W. Bard, American Can's vice president of manufacturing for pulp and paper mills said, "a building providing aproximately 100,000 square feet for paper machine operations, as well as a warehouse affording 30,000 square feet for storage of printing and business papers."

In addition to these papers, American Can's present areas of business are container and packaging products, consumer products, service products and chemical products.

Pitching Pennies, One of the many fund raising activities sponsored this week by the local American Field Service (AFS) chapter at Appleton High School-West, will help bring four foreign exchange students to the two high schools next year. The AFS week will culminate with a community dance Saturday evening. Scott Ferguson and Sharon Schmidt do their share to help in the endeavor. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Continue Talks in Press Strike

Management-union talks continued today, and another meeting is set for Wednesday, as the strike of pressmen entered its sixth day at The Post-Crescent.

The newspaper has continued to publish since the walkout of 16 employes in the press-stereo department Feb. 22.

Post-Crescent management, representatives of the striking pressmen and a federal mediator from Green Bay met this morning and will resume talks again at 2 p.m. Wednesday.

The corporation is also negotiating a contract with the Engravers Union which represents five employes who are on the job.

A meeting between representatives for the company and engravers was cancelled Monday because of other commitments of union negotiators. Another date is being set.

$550 Damage In King Crash

WAUPACA — Damage estimated at more than $550 resulted from a two-car accident, two miles southwest of King at the intersection of County Trunk Q and Grandview Road at 2:50 p.m., Monday.

According to county police, Gerald C. Geiger, 49, King, was traveling west on County Trunk Q and making a left turn while a car driven by August W. Opichka, 17, route 1, Waupaca, was traveling east on County Trunk Q when the cars collided.

Both drivers escaped injury.

Drivers in Accidents At New London Forfeit Bonds Totaling $94

NEW LONDON — Three automobile drivers involved in accidents Feb. 17 or 18, forfeited a total of $94 in Municipal Justice Court Friday when they failed to answer on city police charges.

Gerald R. Carew, 40, 1205 Shiocton St., forfeited $38 on a charge of unsafe backing. On Feb. 17, Carew backed his automobile into two cars on N. Water Street while attempting to park.

Forfeiting $28 each on charges of failing to yield from a stop sign were Victor A. Priebe, 51, 911 Smith St., and Lawrence B. Netzler, 63, 312 E. Washington St. Priebe was involved in an accident on Feb. 18 and Netzler in a collision on Feb. 17.

Three Motorists Fined After Being in Mishaps

KAUKAUNA — Three motorists involved in accidents last week pleaded guilty of traffic violations and were fined when they appeared in municipal justice court Monday.

William J. Terry, 24, Stockbridge, was fined $30 for driving on the left side of the road, Raymond Christenson, 39, 817 Desnoyer St., was fined $15 for driving at speeds not reasonable or prudent and Miss Jane Vander Zanden, 19, 314 W. Wisconsin Ave., was fined $15 for failure to have vehicle under control.

Buckley to Ask Resolution From Council on Tax Relief

Assemblyman Wants Cities To Compromise

Leonard Sees Need Of Greater Efficiency In Local Government

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Assembly Minority Leader Robert Huber, D-West Allis, said today cities should not expect more money from the state legislature from a tax redistribution drive without giving something in return.

That something, he suggested, might be governmental efficiency.

Commenting on a call for tax redistribution to give Wisconsin's major cities a larger portion of the state's shared tax revenues, Huber said, in return cities should promise local government reorganization and efficiency and must be prepared to lose some tax revenues which they have under present sharing formulas.

Share Widely

Corporate income taxes now primarily reserved for core cities, might be shared more widely among all the municipalities of the state following the reasoning of tax redistribution proposals made by city officials, he said.

An "Alliance of Cities" formed this winter by the leaders of the state's largest cities has proposed massive restructuring of the state's tax sharing formulas including the distribution of taxes collected from utilities. The largest percentage of those taxes now are sent back to the home community of the utility's main plant, despite the fact that the companies do business over wide areas.

Huber agreed to a question as to whether the same philosophy could be applied to corporate income taxes levied on business in the state, most of which is located in the state's largest cities.

The same situation could work in reverse in that case and

Appleton Man Fined After Attempting to Elude Police Vehicle

KAUKAUNA — Harley J. Thomas, 39, 2218 N. Rankin St., Appleton, pleaded guilty of driving at speeds not reasonable or prudent and was fined $30 when arraigned before Clarence O'Connor, municipal justice, Friday.

He was arrested earlier in the week when police noted his car stopped at an intersection at night with headlights out. As they approached to investigate, Thomas took off and attempted to elude police who finally stopped him in Combined Locks.

Announcement of Plans to Construct a second nuclear-powered electricity generating unit at Point Beach was done at a Monday noon press conference by John McLean, a Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. vice president. Wisconsin Electric Power Co., Milwaukee will build the $57 million unit as a companion to another $60 million unit already under construction. Wisconsin Michigan will operate both units. Wisconsin Electric also announced plans to build a $17 million thermal generator in Milwaukee. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Move Would Back Action Of Alliance

Mayor George Buckley announced today he will ask the Appleton Council Wednesday night to adopt a resolution which supports the stand taken by the Alliance of Cities to obtain a more equitable shared aids and tax distribution system in Wisconsin.

Buckley indicated he and other mayors and managers in the Valley feel waiting two more years for legislative action is not necessary. He concurred with the Alliance of City spokesmen that a special session of the legislature should be called this fall for the state's lawmakers to cope with urban problems and update legislation which will help alleviate them.

If adopted by the council, the resolution will be forwarded to Gov. Knowles and the legislature.

Cities Agree

Similar resolutions are being prepared in several other communities where mayors and managers have participated in a series of conferences on urban problems and the need for action by the legislature.

The Alliance, comprised of mayors and managers of the state's 19 more populated cities, was formed to present proposals to the legislature which would allow for property tax relief.

Buckley conferred with Mayor Henry W. Maier, Milwaukee, briefly Monday after the latter's talk at the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce Forum at the Conway.

Buckley said he was in agreement with Maier and other mayors that the legislature should move faster than it proposes to do on making studies. They also questioned the need of any further studies, citing those of the past.

Request Meeting

Buckley said today he received word from Mayor Otto

Planners Approve Apartment Units

Milwaukee Developers Submit Plans for $2.2 Million Facility

Appleton's planning commission Monday approved revised plans for a $2.2 million apartment complex for the city's northwest side.

The plans, submitted by Kesler Development Corp., Milwaukee, are the third set to come before city officials

The proposed apartments would be built on 8½ acres in Gillett Highlands subdivision bordered by Marquette, Linwood and Pershing streets.

Original plans were approved last year and would have included 300 units in an elaborate three-story structure. The development firm ran into financial snags after receiving approval of the original plans by the commission and Appleton Council.

Plans Submitted

A second set of plans was then submitted to City Planner Walter Rasmussen who asked the developers to resubmit a third layout for approval by the commission. The intermediate set, he said, was not consistent with the original drawings.

In reworking the plans, Kesler developers trimmed the size of the complex from 300 to 220 units. The plans approved by the commission include five separate buildings, none of them more than two stories tall.

Morton Kesselman, a partner in the development firm, told commission members, "There hasn't been any cheapening of construction plans."

Unit Costs

The estimated cost of construction, he said, will be about $10,000 a unit. The buildings will be essentially of the same construction as were the original plans, Kesselman said.

The firm decided to modify plans for the complex after they reportedly were unable to obtain financial backing for the first building proposed. Kesselman said, under the latest plans, the firm's lender would finance the structures in a "piece-meal" manner. The developer blamed a "tight money situation" for the change in plans.

Despite the alterations, Kesselman said, the apartment specifications submitted to the State Industrial Commission for approval will not be changed.

The newest plans need council approval and the firm will then have to re-apply for a building permit, Kesselman said the new plans don't include underground parking. The cut in total number of dwelling units, however, will allow more space per unit, he said.

In other action, the plan commission:

Tour of Farms Is Wednesday

The annual tour of farms in Outagamie County by farmers participating in agriculture classes at the Appleton and Kaukauna Vocational Schools will be Wednesday.

An earlier report in The Post-Crescent had the tour scheduled for Thursday.

Leonard Warner and Oliver Lerum, instructors for the courses, will conduct the tours. Farmers have been assigned to three groups. A noon dinner is planned at Van Abel's in Hollandtown.

Specified Assignments

Alderman Asks Special Troubleshooting Group

Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd) suggested formation of a special troubleshooting and study committee for the Appleton Council when he appeared before the finance committee Monday night.

Previously, Kalata submitted considerable data to the committee supporting his recommendation for such a committee and was asked to refine it.

Members told Kalata they were in agreement with his general thinking but felt he should obtain more information on a similar type committee which operates in Milwaukee.

Kalata thought the group could be called the methods and operations committee, which would get special assignments.

There was some question whether aldermen, who serve parttime, would have the time to serve on such a committee which might have to hold extensive hearings and long meetings — depending on the problems being explored.

Kalata and the committee agreed more research was needed and then the matter would be presented to the entire council as a committee of the whole to consider.

The object is to make a recommendation by April when council committees are appointed.

In other action the committee asked the city attorney for an opinion on whether the city could charge the cost of his services performed for the Appleton School district back to the towns which are a part of the district. It would be done on a proportionate basis.

Kindergarten Pupils To Enroll at Quinney

KAUKAUNA — Kindergarten students who will be attending classes for the 1967-68 school year will be registered at Quinney School from 8 to 11:45 a.m. and 1 to 4 p.m. on March 9.

Students living from 15th Street to County Trunk KK and Beaulieu Hill are to register at Quinney School, not Nicolet as reported in Saturday's paper. Kindergarten students at Quinney will not attend classes on the day registration is held.

$375 Damage Reported In New London Mishap

NEW LONDON — An accident at 10:50 a.m. Sunday on Division Street resulted in an estimated $375 damage.

City police said a car driven by Mrs. Richard Haase, 23, 1713 S. Pearl St., was traveling south on Division when it collided with a car driven by Adolph C. Wolfrath, 39, route 1, Larsen, which was backing out of a driveway.

Entry Deadline Set Art, Science Festival At New London School

NEW LONDON — Deadline for entries in the school system's first annual art, science and mathematics festival is Wednesday.

Entries are to be returned to Steve Fuhrmann, Alfred Weeden or Mrs. Kenneth Flanagan. The Parent-Teacher Association sponsored festival will be from 1 to 8 p.m. April 23 at the senior high school.

Students from the junior and senior high school will be eligible to compete for the awards.

Kaukauna Library Offers Story Hours

KAUKAUNA — The Kaukauna library is offering four story hours for pre-school youngsters meeting on Thursday afternoons. Enrollment is limited to youngsters who will be in kindergarten next fall. It is not open to those who are now in kindergarten.

Teen-Age Girl Found Dead At Green Bay

GREEN BAY — The shooting Monday of a teen-aged Green Bay girl was being investigated by city detectives today.

The girl, Cathleen Potoczek, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Potoczek, was found dead of a gunshot wound in her boy friend's apartment about 2:15 p.m. Monday.

Capt. Jerome Queoff, detective division, said this morning the girl's boy friend, John Bengston, 19, formerly of Ishpeming, Mich., had been questioned about the shooting and was later released.

Bengston, a student at Badger Business College and an employe of Schreiber Cheese Co., was expected to be questioned again today.

Queoff said it had not been determined whether the shooting was accidental, homicidal or self-inflicted.

"We have no reason to suspect anything yet," he said.

An autopsy was performed on Miss Potoczek's body this morning. Coroner Tim Blaney said the girl definitely died of the gunshot wound.

Family Hospitalized

Two Crashes in Two Days Plague Black Creek Man

And you think you have problems!

Sunday night Walter Steffens of Black Creek was driving a car that was involved in a fatal accident just west of Appleton. Police said a car driven by an 18-year-old Appleton youth veered into the path of the Steffens auto. Five members of the Steffens family and a Black Creek woman were injured. The driver of the other car died.

Steffens' 1967 car, a Christmas present from his wife, was demolished.

Monday morning Steffens, who escaped serious injury, was enroute to Appleton to visit his wife, Audrey, and their daughter, Kay, who are still hospitalized.

He got as far as Pleasant Road and Outagamie County Trunk A, where his 1960 "second car" was struck by a car that had just bounced off another vehicle. Steffens, 37, escaped injury but his car was extensively damaged. A passenger in another car was injured.

County police said Steffens was southbound on A, following a car driven by Elaine Kurey, route 2, Black Creek. The Kurey car began to turn east onto Pleasant Road when it collided with a northbound car driven by Harvey Reuprecht, 49, Milwaukee. The Reuprecht car veered into the Steffens car, even though Steffens, seeing there would be a collision, swerved to the right.

Warren Strampe, 57, Milwaukee, a passenger in the Ruprecht car, suffered a lip injury.

Ward Meetings Planned

School Candidates to Speak at LWV Forum

Individual ward meetings for Appleton Council candidates and a forum involving school board candidates have been arranged Thursday by the Appleton League of Women Voters at Madison Junior High School.

The ward meetings will begin at 7:30 p.m.; school board candidates will speak at 8:15 p.m. at the assembly.

League members will act as moderators and introduce each city council candidate who will then be allowed five minutes to present his qualifications, experience and other information pertinent to the office he seeks. A question and answer period will follow.

All school board candidates will be introduced by Mrs. Gordon McIntyre, moderator. A brief biography will be read on each. Candidates will be allowed five minutes each to present their views. The audience will have an opportunity to ask questions.

"The League has traditionally encouraged an informed electorate and sponsors these meetings so candidates and voters have the opportunity to meet and express their views on pertinent questions.

"Because we believe that all candidates should be presented, we have decided to hold the meeting before the primary election. We will not have another meeting prior to the Aprial election but will publish our usual candidates questionnaire," said Mrs. Arch Hoffman, LWV president.

Officers in charge of the meeting include Mrs. David Halloran, voters service chairman: Mrs. Douglas Johnson, general chairman for candidates meeting with Mrs. Richard O'Neil and Mrs. Joseph Vareka assisting; and Mrs. Herold Winzenz, Mrs. Walter Wieckert, Mrs. Kyle Ward Jr., Mrs Hoffman and Mrs. Johnson, ward moderators.

Lively Meeting Ensues

Differences of Opinion Expressed At Street Extension Discussion

Street extensions in the 10th Ward and Town of Menasha, coupled with differences of opinion among neighbors, made for 90 minutes of lively discussion at Monday's street - sanitation committee meeting at city hall.

The committee met with representatives of the Town of Menasha, headed by Chairman Roland Kampo.

Discussed in length but no agreement or recommendations arrived at were:

—Extension of Cherry Court, with the first phase to be the laying of sanitary sewer to serve city residents now hooked on to a town sanitary district.

—Eventual extension of Calumet Street from Oneida west to Memorial Drive.

—Future reconstruction of Memorial Drive from the bridge south (State 10-47) when funds are available under the Federal Secondary Roads Act.

Meeting Leap-Frogged

Actually, the meeting became confusing at times as participants leap-frogged from subject to subject and project to project.

There were differences of opinion on what should be done to Cherry Court and the Calumet Street extension from residents of the Town of Menasha, Cherry Court, Garden Court, Gardner's Row and others — some in the city and others residing in the town.

Kampo and other town officials focused attention on the extension of Calumet Street, which is actually a two-phase project, and claimed the city's proposed plan was too costly. They also did not agree with the city's proposed route.

Others in the audience sided with town officials, and there were some who opposed them.

Launch Study

Recently, the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission indicated it would launch a transportation study which would eventually pinpoint what location for Calumet Street extended would be more feasible.

Town officials and others felt a critical situation would be created by having the street connect with Memorial Drive.

Louis J. Chudy, 2 Garden Court, said the city's extension proposal would have the street passing within two feet of his bedroom. He registered strong opposition to the city plan and feared for the safety of his children due to vehicular traffic.

Ed Krause, 4 Cherry Court, claimed the city's plan at this point for extending streets was vague and asked officials to "move in a more orderly fashion."

Some residents, with Mrs. Abraham Sigman, 50 Garden Court, giving the most effective argument, contended Cherry Court should be extended and every effort made to eliminate a problem whereby city residents in that area have to drive around into the Town of Menasha before they can get ingress and egress to the city.

Mrs Sigman said they wanted to be a part of the City of Appleton and not the Town of Menasha, so they could get all city services and police and fire protection for which they are paying taxes. "We want to shop and do business in the city," Mrs. Sigman said, "and make it easier for the children to go to school and enjoy recreation facilities.

For those who questioned the fill to be used in filling the ravine in connection with a Cherry Court sewer project, Ald. Roy Pointer (14th) gave assurance it would be "good fill and not unsightly."

There were several other avenues of discussion, with some residents indicating they would just as soon stay hooked on to the town sanitary sewer district for $450 a year rather than have the city spend a large sum of money to put in its own utilities.

Members of the committee and town board indicated they would hold future meetings in hopes of ironing out problems

Council to Air Controversy

Trouble May Loom for Ordinance on CATV

An ordinance regulating community antenna television (CATV) appears headed for trouble when it comes before the Appleton Council Wednesday night.

The subject of CATV, batted about by aldermen for almost two years, was revived recently when Ald. Roy Pointer (14th), chairman of the street-sanitation committee, urged the city adopt an ordinance.

Pointer's committee met at the city hall Monday afternoon and after reviewing suggestions to be incorporated into an ordinance as proposed at a previous joint meeting with the public safety committee, approved the document 4 to 2.

However, shortly after Ald. Paul Klemmer (11th) and Norman Beyer (20th), who voted against it, wanted reconsideration.

Delete Clause

Klemmer said he felt one clause which states that CATV cannot duplicate programs of regional TV stations the same day they are broadcast, should be deleted. Pointer said he had originally raised the same point some time ago.

Beyer claimed he did not have time to study the ordinance and felt that council should not act hastily.

And Pointer and Klemmer both made critical statements concerning Post Corporation, claiming, "The city should not be protecting the interests of Post Corporation."

Klemmer said it was up to the Federal Communications Commission to protect regional TV stations from CATV if there were harmful effects.

Klemmer said he was against the ordinance solely on the basis of the one restrictive clause.

Seek Suggestions

(Post Corporation operates one of three television stations at Green Bay, all serving the Fox Valley and Northern Wisconsin.)

When the final ordinance was to be prepared last month, the joint committee asked representatives of Post Corporation and others interested to convey suggestions that would make for a good CATV ordinance for Appleton.

Objecting that he had not been notified the city was finalizing a CATV ordinance was a representative of Marcus CATV, Milwaukee. He was told the next meeting at which CATV will be discussed would be before the welfare-ordinance committee at 7 p.m. March 7.

There was strong indication Monday after the committee's split approval of the ordinance that it will be referred back to committee when reaching the council floor.

The Newest Addition to the Ford Rexall Drug Co. chain is pictured before its opening Wednesday. The store is located at 2725 N. Meade St., in the Northland Village shopping center. Grand opening is scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Twice Rescheduled City Council Meeting Set March 7 at Waupaca

WAUPACA — A city council meeting originally scheduled for Feb. 21 has been rescheduled for the second time for lack of a quorum. The session is now set for March 7.

This meeting will be on the same date as the Cooperative Educational Service Agency public hearing on the proposed Waupaca-Weyauwega school district merger. Because of it, the city council will meet at 7 p.m. and adjourn at 8 p.m. so city officials may attend the hearing, City Clerk Harriett Ward said.

Recovery Group Braves Storm to Participate in Mental Health Program

Approximately 85 persons braved one of the winter's worst snowstorms last Sunday, Feb. 19, to attend a panel demonstration put on by members of Recovery, Inc., at Holy Trinity School Hall, Casco.

Purpose of the Kewaunee County demonstration, presented by Fox Cities residents, was to dramatize the Recovery method for better mental health. It also was intended to encourage the development of Recovery, Inc., groups which promote the self-help method of overcoming fears and other symptoms caused by nervous or emotional problems.

There are now over 600 groups throughout the United States and provinces om Canada, with thousands of persons attending their meetings.

Local area meeting places are at Green Bay, Algoma, Fond du Lac, and Menasha. The Menasha meetings are at 7:30 p.m. Thursdays at St. Timothy Lutheran Church Parish Hall.

More information may be obtained from the leader, Leola Masek, 636 London St., Menasha.

Festge, Madison, chairman of the Alliance of Cities, that he is requesting a meeting with Gov. Knowles early next week.

"It is my hope that the governor will join with the mayors and city managers in urging the legislature to set an early date for completion of the study which is of such vital importance to the residents of the urban areas of our state," Festge informed Buckley.

Festge and other mayors are disturbed by the action of the State Senate which last week voted to extend to Jan. 1, 1969, the date for submission of the report by the committee which is to study the distribution of state aids and shared taxes.

'Slap In Face'

"This action ignores the urgent nature of the plight of the property taxpayer," Festge told Buckley. "It is a slap in the face to the Alliance of Cities which recently requested the legislature, in fact, to advance the date from Jan. 1, 1968, to Sept. 1, 1967, and the governor to hold a special session of the legislature in October of this year."

Buckley said he agreed with other mayors — several of them in the Valley — that the present state tax formula encourages "tax islands," claiming they are hurting the central cities throughout the state.

Ald. Alvin E. Tews (5th), chairman of the council's finance committee, said during a meeting at city hall Monday night that he agreed updated legislation was needed to help the cities.

At Green Bay

Mayor Donald Tilleman of Green Bay, whose community may not fare too well by a change in utility tax distribution but will have gains in other tax-sharing areas, was also critical of the legislature today.

"As a member of the Alliance of Cities and having studied the outmoded overall tax distribution system, I say this is an immediate problem," Tilleman declared. "I think taking two years to conduct a study is exhorbitant."

Tilleman said he would work with other mayors in "a concerted effort to get the study expedited. I would certainly be disappointed if any study took two years," Tilleman added.

A resolution supporting the Alliance of Cities position — the same as the one being introduced here, will be before the Green Bay council next week, Tilleman said.

Firm's Fourth Location

New Drug Store Opens at Appleton Shopping Center

The fourth Ford Rexall Drug Co. store in the Fox River Valley will open for business Wednesday at 2725 N. Meade St., in the Northland Village shopping center, according to Mel Hemmen, president of the chain.

The new store will be managed by James Hemmen who has been associated with the company's downtown Appleton store for the past six years. He is a graduate of the School of Pharmacy, University of Wisconsin.

The drug store firm operates stores on Appleton's College Avenue, the Fox Point Shopping Center in Neenah and downtown Fond du Lac.

The new store has 5,200 square feet of space for departments including a pharmacy, cosmetic department, drug and sundries, convalescent aid, gifts greeting cards, tobacco and other health aids. A drive-up prescription window also is featured.

Grand opening is scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. The store will be open Sundays, Hemmen said.

Mel Hemmen is former vice president in charge of operations for Ford Hopkins Drug Co., Chicago. He formed the Ford Rexall Drug chain in the Valley 11 years ago.

remove money now gained by the cities, he said.

"The cities should not expect just more money from the legislature. They will have to accept some ground rules to a redistribution system." Among those ground rules might be a loss of such funds, he said.

"I don't think cities have the right to just come up here and ask for more money. They have to offer us something in return."

He said that the Democrats and the mayors had agreed with the Republicans that a local government reorganization study would accompany a proposed tax distribution study.

He then accused Republican Gov. Warren P. Knowles of violating an agreement which, he said, stipulated that the study would be reported in January of 1968. That date would allow the present session of the legislature to take action on any recommendations.

Last week the Republican-controlled State Senate changed the date to 1969 which Huber called "a break of faith."

Knowles is attempting to delay any action until after the 1968 election. Democrats charge. They contend he intends to run then for the U. S. Senate seat held by Democrat Gaylord Nelson.

Hortonville Youth Pleads Guilty; Loses License for Second Year

Rollie Bessett, 18, route 1, Hortonville, Monday afternoon changed his plea to guilty of driving after his license was revoked.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. J. Keller fined Bessett $50 and costs or 24 days in jail and ordered his license revoked for another year.

The youth was arrested Oct. 2 by state police on State 76 in the Town of Grand Chute. He had pleaded innocent.

Return Man to Waupun For Treatment After Morals Offense Hearin

A 52-year-old Little Chute man was ordered returned to Central State Hospital at Waupun Monday in connection with two morals charges brought following investigation by Outagamie County authorities.

Melvin Lorenzen, 729 Depot St., earlier had pleaded guilty of taking indecent liberties with a 15-year-old boy and attempting to take indecent liberties with a 13-year-old girl. Both offenses occurred in November.

Lorenzen, who had a court-appointed attorney, was returned last week from Central State Hospital Judge Gustave J. Keller, in ordering Lorenzen placed under supervision of the State Department of Public Welfare, ruled that the man, according to hospital officials, is in need of further treatment.

go and North Western railroad tracks. The group also asked the city council to consider acquisition of property at the old Outagamie County airport for industrial purposes.

— Held over until the next meeting an offer to sell approximately eight acres of land in the Colony Oaks West plat for development as a park site. The parcel would be sold to the city for $58,000.

—Waived deed restrictions on four lots in North Park Estates. The rezoning already has been approved allowing further development of Doctor's Park.

—Approved rezoning three lots between Badger Avenue and Memorial Drive from two family and multiple family to local business district.

Approved Zoning

— Approved rezoning from single family residential to light industrial, property on the southwest corner of Haskell Street and Prospect Avenue. The petition was filed by Humble Oil Co.

— Approved rezoning from single to two family dwelling a lot on the west side of Birchwood Avenue at Grant Street.

— Heard a plea from Gerald Schoepke, spokesman for the Appleton Jaycees, asking for sites in Appleton for use as state offices for the Wisconsin Jaycees organization. Schoepke said the group is seeking temporary offices and eventually will need permanent facilities. The state group will investigate sites offered by cities around Wisconsin.

$650 Damage Set in Little Chute Accident

LITTLE CHUTE — Damage was estimated at about $650, but no one was injured in an accident in the 1500 block of E. Main Street about 10:45 p.m. Sunday.

According to police, a car being driven west on Main Street by Mrs. Raphael Peters, route 2, Kaukauna, struck a legally parked auto owned by Robert H. Coffin, 31, 401½ Desnoyer St., Kaukauna, pushing it over the curb into a telephone pole.

Man Hospitalized

Rudolph Carson, 42, 1833 N. Ullman St., was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital in Larry's Ambulance after he collapsed at his home about 10:30 p.m. Monday.

Woman Hospitalized After 3-Car Mishap

Barbara A. Niemuth, 19, 202½ E. North St. suffered bruises to her right shoulder and right knee and a cut hand about 4:50 p.m. Monday when her car was involved in a three-car accident at Morrison and Summer Streets.

She was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital. Police said Miss Niemuth was northbound on Morrison when her car was struck by a westbound auto driven by David L. DeBruin, 17, 4939 N. Meade St.

The Niemuth car was spun around and into a parked auto owned by Susan Angell, 1050 Meadow Lane, Neenah.

Undergraduate Work Scheduled for Summer

Seven Intensive Study Classes Planned at Lawrence University

Seven undergraduate courses will be offered on an intensive basis during Lawrence University's third summer school session from June 19 to Aug. 11, according to President Curtis W. Tarr.

The courses are limited to those which can be carried on uniquely during the summer months, benefitting from the advantages of climate for outdoor work in science and of concentrated work in languages and teacher education. Because of the intensive nature, students will enroll in only one course.

Subjects and faculty members will be: Field Problems in Archaeology, Dr. Ronald J. Mason; Biology-Botany, Dr. Nicholas C. Maravolo; Education Seminars and Teaching Internship, Kenneth R. W. Sager; Beginning German, Dr. H. Hartmut Gerlach; Beginning Russian, Dr. Richard L. Yatzeck; General Geology, Theodore Ross; and Directed Research in Physics, Dr. Fred T. Phelps.

Archaeology, biology - botany and geology will include a great deal of field work in this area. In addition, the geology group will take a two-week trip to the Rocky Mountains at the end of the course.

Two Credits

The normal course carries two term credits at a fee of $300. There are two exceptions, the geology course, for which travel expenses to the west have been added; and the education courses, which demand concurrent registration for four term credits and an adjusted fee of $450.

In addition to the undergraduate work, Lawrence will be host to several special groups — institutes for secondary school teachers of English and mathematics, an institute for high school age biology students and an expected renewal of last summer's Upward Bound program. Verbal assurances have been received on the latter program; the others have been officially granted from government sources.

Directors of the various institutes are Dr. Herbert Tjossem, English; Dr. William Sanders, mathematics; Dr. Michael LaMarca, high school age biology; and George Walter, Upward Bound.

Church Music

There will also be a two-day workshop in church music to be held June 14-16 under the direction of LaVahn Maesch, dean of the conservatory. It is the fifth annual event.

Colman Hall will house undergraduate women and provide dining facilities for all summer session residents. Other residence halls will accommodate undergraduate men and adults in special programs. Lawrence will not attempt to accommodate families in dormitories as it has done in the past, but will maintain a list of apartments available during the summer.

There are two steps to registration: securing permission directly from the instructor involved, and official registration with the registrar. Enrollments in some courses will be limited to 15.

Commission OKs Convention Trip For City Planner

The City Plan Commission Monday approved a request asking that City Planner Walter Rasmussen be allowed to attend a five-day American Society of Planning Officials convention in Houston, Tex.

Rasmussen's request was approved quickly with only one dissenting vote, that of Mayor George L. Buckley who repeatedly has opposed attendance by city officials at out-of-state events.

The commission's recommendation will go before the Appleton Council for further action. The convention begins April 1 and includes discussions by planning and government officials from around the nation.

Topics scheduled include water resources planning, zoning, waste disposal problems, health facilities, towns legislation, taxation and airport planning.

Parochial Schools Okayed Tentatively for Shared Time

Board Contends Each Request Requires Separate Handling

Shared time between Appleton public and parochial schools was approved conditionally Monday by the Appleton Board of Education.

The question arose when Brother H. Richard, Xavier High School principal, requested permission to enroll some of his students in a Russian course offered at Appleton High School-West.

According to William Spears, superintendent, some discussions regarding shared time were held in the past with Brother Peter, former Xavier principal, but nothing could be done at that time because of the crowded conditions at the one high school.

"With the new high school opening in the fall, there may be room for private school pupils in some courses," Spears said.

Handled Separately

The board decided that each request for shared time would have to be handled separately and judged on circumstances at the time the request is made.

This included the request for enrolling students in Russian and Spears was authorized to discuss the specifics with Brother Richard and report back to the board which then will take action.

"Since there has been a small enrollment in Russian in the past year and since we will have the language course in both schools, it is very possible we may be able to accommodate some private school students," Spears said.

He also added that private school students who are not in the Appleton School District would have to pay tuition as required by state law.

Urge Reinstatement

A letter from Xavier from the student council, and a private letter opposing the deletion and urging reinstatement of the summer school program, caused a comment from Charles Buchanan, board president.

"We concur it has a valuable place in the education program and has remedial and enrichment value and we hope we can reinstate it next year," he said.

In other business the board requested that William Knuth look into the possibility of adding a payroll deduction program for the Appleton Teachers Credit Union, as requested by John Harkin, a representative of the credit union.

According to Harkins, both the Appleton Education Association and the Appleton Federation of Teachers have agreed unanimously to a loans and savings program, which would be on a voluntary basis.

Unguarded Rail Crossing Causes Complaint Letter

KAUKAUNA — The city attorney has been instructed by aldermen, to write a letter of complaint to the Chicago and North Western Railway concerning lack of a flagman at the Lawe Street crossing.

A copy of the communication also will be sent the Public Service Commission (PSC) of the state. Last year the city tried unsuccessfully to have traffic signals installed at the crossing as a protection to motorists.

Following investigation, the PSC ruled that traffic, both vehicular and train, across the crossing did not warrant automatic signals. Lack of accidents and personal injuries resulting from accidents were also cited as reasons no signals were needed, particularly when flagmen were utilized to warn vehicular traffic.

The railway was instructed to make use of flagmen at the crossing, but in the past few months aldermen and citizens have noted trains crossing without a warning by flagmen. If sufficient violations of the PSC order are noted, aldermen feel that unit may require the railway to take action to provide better protection at the crossing.

Bear Creek Man Bolts From Burning Auto

BEAR CREEK — Fire destroyed a 1956 model car owned by Alphonse Bricco at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the home of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Flanagan, route 1, about two miles southwest of here.

As Bricco started his car it burst into flames and he narrowly escaped being burned. The volunteer fire department was called to extinguish the blaze.

Two Charged With Receiving Stolen Goods

$4,600 in Jewelry Allegedly Possessed By Appleton Pair

Darrell Kaiser, 40, and Elroy Barth, 18, both of 721 N. Morrison St., were arraigned in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 after warrants were issued earlier in the day charging the pair with receiving jewelry stolen from an Appleton home Feb. 16.

The court appointed attorneys for the pair.

A 17-year-old youth whom police said stole about $4,600 worth of jewelry from the Eugene Hopfensperger home, 534 N. Garfield Place, has been returned to the state school for boys at Wales for an indefinite period. The action was taken in Outagamie County Juvenile Court.

The youth reportedly had entered the home through a rear door, with a skeleton key he had purchased for 19 cents.

Loot Included

Police said he took two men's diamond rings, a man's wedding ring, a woman's ring, a man's diamond studded watch, and a woman's watch studded with 29 diamonds. He reportedly sold all but two of the women's rings for a total of $9.

Kaiser is charged, following investigation by Appleton detectives, with receiving and concealing two men's rings and the woman's watch, while Barth is accused of receiving and concealing the man's wrist watch.

Kaiser and Barth are being held in the Outagamie County jail in lieu of posting $2,500 bonds each. They will be returned to court Friday afternoon.

Attorney Lee Jensen was named to represent Kaiser while Fred Froehlich will represent Barth, both at county expense. Barth and Kaiser were found indigent following examinations by Richard Hamilton, assistant district attorney.

Bear Creek School Plans Course for Adult Migrants

BEAR CREEK — An adult education program for migrant workers in the school district, sponsored by the State Department of Public Welfare, has been approved by the board of education.

Supervising principal, Norbert Kalinosky, said this would not involve any additional costs to the district except for light and heat while the building is in use. The state will provide the teaching staff.

It has been noted by judges and administrating authorities that there is difficulty in communicating between the parent and child and this program is designed to help the adults to better understand the American culture.

Kalinosky will attend a meeting today at the Appleton Adult and Vocational School, at which time dates will be set and material planned by the vocational school, the Outagamie County and the State welfare departments.

New London Driver Pleads Innocent in Waupaca Court Case

WAUPACA — Ormond W. Capener, 59, 710 Dickenson St., New London, pleaded innocent to a charge of illegal passing on a double yellow line Friday when he appeared in Municipal Justice Court.

Municipal Justice George Whalen set 2:30 p.m. April 19 for the trial.

Capener was arrested by a state patrolman after he had been involved in a two car accident, six miles east of Waupaca on State 54 at Jim's Corners. The patrolman alleged that Capener, who was traveling west, was passing a second westbound car that was making a left turn and the two cars collided.

Hilbert Man to Head Heart Fund Campaign In Calumet County

Former Waupaca Man on Probation For Bad Checks

WAUPACA — Charles H. Rodgers, 28, LaVista, Neb., a former Waypaca resident, was placed on probation when he pleaded guilty Monday to six charges of issuing worthless checks, when he was arraigned in Waupaca County Court.

Rodgers, who was returned to Waupaca from Nebraska to face the worthless check charges, was ordered to make restitution and pay the cost of the action against him. Judge Wendell McHenry placed Rodgers on probation for 18 months and granted him the right to return to Nebraska where he will serve his probationary time.

AMHERST — John W. Wied, Town of Buena Vista farmer, has had his name submitted to the US Senate for confirmation as postmaster here. Wied, a former vice chairman of the Portage County Democratic party, was among 205 postmasters nominated. Fred Berto has been acting as postmaster since the retirement of Vernon Martin.

Readfield Man Arrested on Disorderly Conduct Charge

A 25-year-old Appleton man whom police said threatened to kill himself at the home of his estranged wife Monday afternoon was scheduled to be returned to Outagamie County Court Branch 2 this afternoon on a disorderly conduct charge.

Harold K. Zimmerman, Readfield, pleaded guilty Monday afternoon, but Judge Gustave J. Keller, in ordering a $500 bond, said he wanted to "think about" the case for a while. He continued the case to 1:30 p.m. today. Zimmerman was placed in jail in lieu of posting bond.

A detective testified Zimmerman's estranged wife, Donna, called police about 2 p.m. Monday and said that her husband was in her bedroom at 325½ S. Benoit St., with a shotgun and was threatening to take his life.

Police said Zimmerman was gone when they arrived at the home. The detective said they found a loaded .12 gauge pump action shotgun on the bed. While police were looking for Zimmerman, he reportedly returned to his wife's apartment where he was arrested.

The court was told that the Zimmermans are in the process of getting a divorce.

Funny Faces and Animals Help Decorate Flower Pots

BY CAPPY DICK

If you have several small flower pots that are not in use convert them into bases for amusing cutouts which can be displayed as shown in Figures 2 and 3

Cardboard Backing

You may draw the funny faces and animals yourself, paste them on cardboard and cut them out or you may clip suitable pictures from magazines (including a picture of your favorite movie star), mount them on cardboard and cut them out

In either case, leave a stake-like tab at the bottom of each cutout to be pressed into the soil with which each pot must be filled

These cutouts will serve as decorations until you are ready to remove them and plant flower seeds in the pots

Knowles to Chair Seaway Study

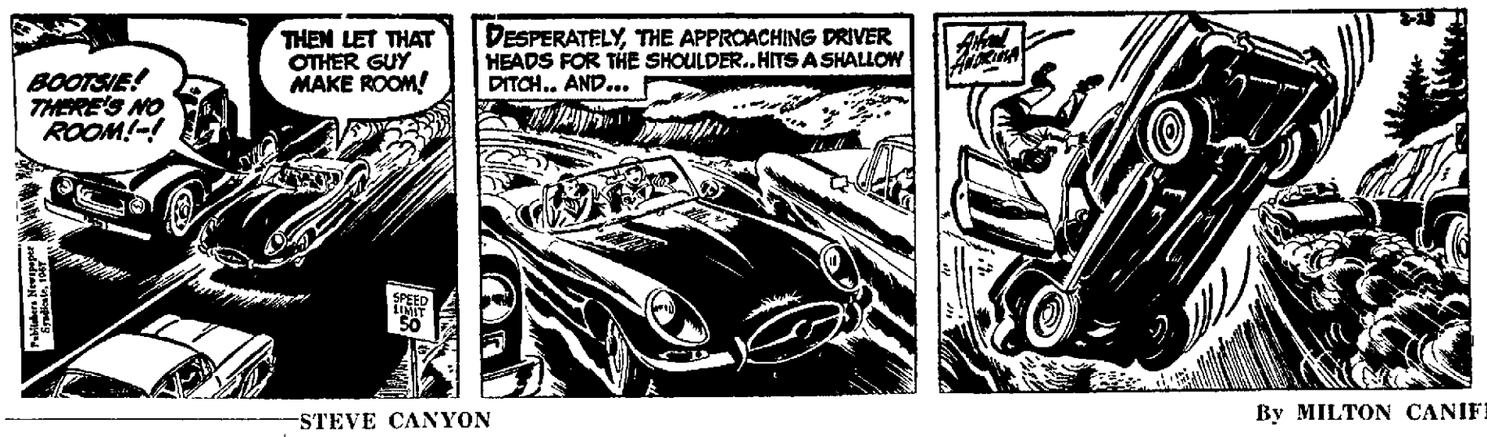

TOLEDO Ohio (AP) — Gov Warren P Knowles of Wisconsin has been named chairman of a committee to study problems of the St Lawrence Seaway

Gov James Rhodes of Ohio who announced Knowles' appointment Sunday, said a request to the government for elimination of Seaway tolls was to be presented to a meeting of the Midwest Governors Conference today

Knowles' committee, Rhodes, said, will include other Midwest waterways in studies of economic problems involved in water transportation

Honor Youth From Seymour For 4-H Work

Carl Schaumberg, 17, Among 7 Feted at Holstein Convention

MADISON — Only one youth from the Fox River Valley was among the seven 4-H boys from the state honored by the Holstein-Freisian Association of Wisconsin at its 75th annual meeting here today.

Carl Schaumberg, 17, Seymour was awarded a true-type Holstein plaque by John Selz, chairman of the junior activities committee.

Schaumberg and the others were selected by the state 4-H committee and junior activities committee of the Holstein association from a large group of boys in the state who participated in the Holstein dairy project and were chosen for their progress over a period of years.

Eight Years in 4-H

Schaumberg is a senior at Seymour Community High School and an eight-year member of the Wild Grove 4-H Club. He carries projects in woodworking, leathercraft, electricity, small engines and junior leadership in addition to his dairy work.

Last December he was a delegate to the National 4-H Dairy Conference in Chicago, delegate to state 4-H Club Week last year and has exhibited cattle at the state fair for the past three years. He has served as president and reporter of the school's FFA chapter and was a delegate to last year's state convention. He was awarded state farmer degree in 1966.

Others were Tom Hoesly, New Glarus; Robert Quick, Bagley; Robin Robertson, Stoughton; Garry Mentink, Waldo; Allan Waelchi, Shawano, and John Horlamus, West Bend.

Caucus Set Saturday For Town of Maine

LEEMAN — Town of Maine caucus will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at the town hall, according to George Gomm, clerk.

All incumbent town officials will be seeking nomination at the caucus, according to the report.

Polls will be open at the Town of Maine hall from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. for the March 7 judicial election.

St. Rose Society

Clintonville Group Sets St. Patrick Celebration

CLINTONVILLE — St. Patrick's Day and the "Wearin' of the Green" may seem quite a long way off, but the traditional shamrocks, clay pipes and leprechauns were much in evidence recently when the general chairmen and circle chairmen met at the home of Mrs. Basil Arvey to make plans for the annual St. Patrick's Day luncheon and card party to be sponsored by the St. Rose Christian Mother-Altar society at the school hall.

Mrs. Arvey is the general chairman of the circles. Mrs. John Bennett's circle is in charge of serving; Mrs. Carl Dehnke's group, dessert; Mrs. Coy Deming's circle, cleanup, and Mrs. W. D. Horton's unit is in charge of the main dish.

Tickets Available

Mrs. Everett Pierre, head of the ticket sales, reported that 224 tickets are now available through reservations. No tickets will be sold at the door in order to facilitate the work of the serving committees. Mrs. Donald Tagliapietra is head of publicity.

Card games will be played after the luncheon and prizes will be awarded at each table.

The theme of this year's St. Patrick's luncheon will center around St. Patrick himself. Mrs. Arvey is in charge of decorations.

School Sets Science Fair

5th Annual Event At High School On March 20-21

HORTONVILLE — James O'Hern, high school science fair director, has announced its 5th annual fair will be March 20 and 21.

Projects must follow the rules of the National Science Fair-International.

Projects will be set up in the school gym March 20 and will be judged that evening. The fair will be open to the public March 21 until 8:30 p.m.

The fair again will have three divisions, biology, chemistry and physics. There will be first and second place awards in each division. Besides these awards a project will be picked as the grand award winner. Several honorable mention projects will be picked.

In previous years the Hortonville fair winners entered the fair at Lawrence University. However, this year Lawrence is not planning a fair so winners will enter the fair at Marquette University in Milwaukee.

One of Hortonville's winners last year, Virginia Siegrist, tied for first place in Appleton and was sent to Dallas to participate in the international fair there.

Waupaca Officers Told

Police-News Media Cooperation Needed

WAUPACA — Understanding between police and the news media must be reached and each group should have confidence in the other to provide the public with accurate information, Roy Valitchka, News Director of WLUK-TV, Green Bay, told police officers of Waupaca County, Monday.

Valitchka spoke on police and press relations as part of an in-service training school sponsored by the Waupaca Police Department. Members of city police departments within the county as well as members of the county police and sheriff's department attended the meeting held at the courthouse.

With recent Supreme Court rulings on the rights of persons allegedly involved in crimes, police are often in doubt on what information can be released to the press, Valitchka said. In addition to the police being in doubt, many times the news media also are in doubt on how much and what type information can be released in fear of placing the police in jeopardy and becoming liable themselves, he added.

Both the police and news media have an obligation and responsibility of informing the public of what is happening in a community and this can be achieved only if there are good working relations between the two groups, Valitchka said. He cited examples of cases where poor relations existed between the police and press and, as a result, the public was not properly informed of situations within the community.

Reedsville Beats Brillion, 73-68

BRILLION — The Brillion Athletic Association team (AA's) ended Eastern Wisconsin Amateur Basketball League play Saturday with a 73-68 loss to Reedsville.

The AA's led 20-17 after the first quarter and 32-30 at halftime, but fell behind and trailed 55-49 after the third stanza.

Noel Zander led the Brillion scoring with 16 points. Dick Eickert paced Reedsville with 18 points.

Authorize Well At Black Creek

Commission Okays $58,000 Enlargement Of Water System

Post Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The village of Black Creek has been authorized by the Public Service Commission to build a second well, a pumphouse and additional water mains, the first major ones in 26 years. The improvements will cost about $58,000, according to engineering estimates.

Village officials told the commission that the existing well must operate for extended periods to accommodate peak demands, and that it cannot be removed from service to permit inspection and repairs that may be necessary.

The water distribution system also is becoming inadequate to provide desirable fire control pressures throughout the sys- liaison.

Chamber to Pick Committeemen At Waupaca

WAUPACA — Chairmen and members of standing committees will be named when the Waupaca Chamber of Commerce board of directors meet March 8.

G. H. Stordock, secretary, said the board has been supplied with a list of the committees and asked to select one for which they would like to act as liason.

Legionnaires Planning Birthday Observance

NEW LONDON — Plans to celebrate the 48th anniversary of the American Legion will be made at 8 p.m. today at a meeting of Norris-Spencer post at the Legion Club.

A potluck supper on March 19 has tentatively been scheduled for the observance.

A report on the Waupaca County Council meeting at Fremont will be given. Final plans will be outlined on the "Spanferkel" March 11 at the Legion Club.

A house committee meeting will precede the business session.

Blue, Gold Dinner

Awards Presented to Clintonville Cub Scouts

CLINTONVILLE — Scouting awards were presented at the annual Blue and Gold Dinner for Cub Scout Pack 23, last week at St. Rose Catholic School.

Tony Henn, awards chairman, presented the honors. Families of the cubs were guests, along with Robert McPhail, assistant north district commissioner; Gene Schellinger, Scoutmaster, Troop 23, and Everett Pierre, institutional representative. Larry Bricco is cubmaster.

The Pledge of Allegiance was given following the opening flag ceremony. The Rev. Thaddeus Koszarek offered the prayer.

Intensified Defense Possible After Start Of Rocket Attacks

Da Nang Attack Launched From Sites Up to Six Miles Away

By JOHN T. WHEELER

SAIGON (AP) — Defensive patrols guarding allied bases in Vietnam may have to be increased greatly to counter the big Soviet rockets the Communists used for the first time Monday in attacking the American airbase at Da Nang, a U.S. military source said today.

The 140mm rockets used in the predawn attack were fired from positions six miles to the south of the base. Some U.S. Marine posts extend that far from the base, but there are no conventional trench lines sealing off the area at that distance.

The 51 rockets which landed on the base and the adjoining village of Ap Do killed 12 Marines and 35 Vietnamese civilians, wounded 32 Americans and 70 Vietnamese, slightly damaged 11 planes and hit several military buildings, including barracks, the post exchange and officers club.

Suicide Squads

Until now, plans for defense of major bases have been geared mostly to stopping 81mm mortars with a range of about 2.6 miles and guarding against suicide squads carrying satchel charges which attempt to breach the bases' perimeters.

There have been instances when 120mm mortars, with a range of just over three miles, were used.

U.S. military sources said the 140mm rockets have a longer range and pack more explosives than any weapon used by the Communists to date in periodic shellings of permanent allied installations. They are also much lighter and easier to fire than mortars, making them handier to sneak into position for an attack.

Mortars Heavy

While mortars weigh several hundred pounds, the rocket tubes can be carried with ease by a single man. Setting up mortar positions is time consuming, making the possibility of detection higher. The rockets, mounted on wooden frames, are touched off in groups by an electrical charge.

The 81mm mortar, most common of the Viet Cong's attack weapons, has an explosive warhead weighing nine pounds. The rocket warhead carries 26 pounds of explosive.

Drawbacks to the rockets are their long fire tails and lack of accuracy compared to mortars. The fiery tails of the rockets Monday allowed aircraft and gunship helicopters to spot and rake the communist positions south of Da Nang.

Citizens' Suggestion

Propose Drafting Youths First

WASHINGTON (AP) — A higher ratio of college students and teen-agers would be drafted into military service under proposals submitted by a citizens committee to the House.

The committee, appointed by the House Armed Services Committee, urged Monday that draft boards concentrate on inducting more 19- and 20-year-olds before drafting men in higher age brackets.

The panel also recommended changing the law to limit draft exemption of graduate students to those training for critical professions or occupations.

All other college students would be deferred until they received their undergraduate degree or reached age 24, whichever came first. Then, except in special cases, they'd have the same induction status as the 19-20 age group.

Armed Services Committee spokesmen said the recommendations would be the basis for draft law revision hearings later this month or early in April.

The report is separate from one being written by a special presidential commission which is to submit its recommendations to President Johnson this week. Congressional leaders said Johnson plans to send a special draft message to Capitol Hill Wednesday or Thursday.

The civilian panel was headed by Gen. Mark Clark, retired, of Charleston, S.C. Clark and other panel members were picked by Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., and Rep. William H. Bates of Massachusetts, senior Republican on the committee.

The citizen panel also urged the President to use existing authority to order reservists to active duty "so as to distribute the burden" of war more equitably between inductees and reservists.

Proposals rejected by the panel included a universal national service system, creation of an all-volunteer armed force and establishment of a national lottery system to determine who gets drafted.

Jail Term Could Begin This Week

Last Court of Appeals Closes Door on Hoffa

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa's four-year battle to avoid jail on a federal jury tampering conviction appears all but lost.

The Supreme Court opened the way for his jailing by refusing Monday to grant him a second hearing on his 1964 conviction, then choked off another avenue he might have used to stay out of jail.

The court announced — without comment — that it would not reconsider its Dec. 12 decision upholding Hoffa's conviction, eight-year prison sentence and $10,000 fine.

The labor chief's attorneys immediately sought to block his imprisonment by asking Justice Potter Stewart to delay sending the court's decision back to the U.S. District Court in Chattanooga, Tenn., where Hoffa originally was convicted.

Request Refused

But Stewart, who supervises that district of the federal court system, turned down Hoffa's requests after conferring with the other justices. The high court's rejection then was air mailed back to the district court, which could move today or Wednesday to jail Hoffa.

Court sources said it appeared Hoffa's only remaining hope to avoid prison would be an appeal to the District Court to let him remain free on bail pending its action on motions he has already placed before it.

But U.S. Solicitor General Thurgood Marshall has said Hoffa should not be permitted to avoid prison indefinitely. He indicated any further legal moves by Hoffa could be launched and adjudicated while the labor leader was in jail.

Hoffa, 54, was convicted of tampering with a jury at a 1962 Taft-Hartley conspiracy trial in Nashville, Tenn., that ended with a hung jury.

Hoffa Claims

The Circuit Court in Cincinnati at present is considering claims by Hoffa that seven male jurors were furnished with prostitutes by U.S. marshals and that the trial judge and jurors were prejudiced against him.

He also is challenging government use of Robert Vick, who worked for one of Hoffa's attorneys. Hoffa claims Vick relayed his legal defense plans to the government.

For Hoffa, Monday's decisions marked a stunning defeat in a long history of court battles — many of which he won.

As early as the 1930s, Hoffa's official union biography shows, he was jailed numerous times in connection with picket line activities. In 1938, he was convicted of disturbing the peace.

He was fined $1,000 in 1942 after pleading no contest in Detroit to a federal antitrust conspiracy charge. In 1948, a Detroit court fined him $500 for violating Michigan labor law.

Hoffa was indicted in 1957 on a charge of bribing an attorney, but was acquitted by a U.S. District Court in Washington. The same year he was indicted on wiretapping charges, but again acquitted.

In 1960, Hoffa was indicted on mail fraud charges involving alleged misuse of $500,000 in Teamsters pension funds. The indictment later was dismissed. Two years later, he was charged with assaulting another Teamsters official, but that charge later was withdrawn.

Since 1963, Hoffa has been in and out of the courts on the jury tampering charge. He also was indicted in that year in Chicago on mail fraud charges, and convicted in 1964. His appeal to the Supreme Court on that conviction still is pending.

New Trial Motion Filed by Lawyers

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) —A new trial motion was filed here today in behalf of Teamsters President James R. Hoffa growing out of his 1964 conviction on jury tampering charges.

The motion, Hoffa's fourth, was filed by three of his attorneys.

The motion filed here today was based on eavesdropping claims which were a major basis for the appeal to the Supreme Court.

Budget Director To Defend Cut In Road Funds

Works Committee Disappointed by Slight Restoration

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 16 per cent restoration of highway building money previously frozen by President Johnson is being branded by disappointed members of congressional public works committees as only a minor easing.

Budget Director Charles L. Schultze goes before a joint session of the Senate and House Public Works Committees today to defend the spending cutback.

Secretary of Transportation Alan S. Boyd told the panels Monday that $175 million of the $1.1 billion cut for the current fiscal year is being unfrozen.

More than 30 members of the committees quizzed Boyd. Most of them stressed what they said was the disastrous effect of the cutback on their states.

Not for Construction

They emphasized that, under Boyd's announcement, even the restored $175 million could not be used for construction but only for buying right of way and for preliminary engineering.

Schultze is expected to run into equally barbed questioning since many of the legislators feel that the freeze order originated in his bureau.

Some committee members thought signs of downturn in the nation's economy and a recent drop in the highway construction price-index might lead the administration to end the cutback completely.

Boyd did say the $175 million restoration might be a first step — that other funds might be released in the remaining four months of the current fiscal year if conditions justify.

He also said the full $4.4 billion authorized for highways in fiscal 1968, which starts July 1, would be made available.

Budget Might Respond to UW Protests

MADISON (AP) — A budget backlash may be brewing because of anti-war protests at the University of Wisconsin.

Public resentment against the protests may be reflected in action on the $192 million now recommended for the university, the co-chairmen of the legislature's Joint Finance Committee said Monday.

"Public sentiment is really boiling," said Assemblyman Byron Wackett, R-Watertown.

"Let's be honest. If you feel unkindly toward them, they don't get as much money," said Sen. Walter Hollander, R-Rosendale.

Nineteen persons were arrested last week in student demonstrations against job interviews by a chemical firm making napalm for Vietnam.

Anti-war hecklers disrupted a campus speech by U.S. Sen. Edward Kennedy, D - Mass., last fall, and 5,000 students commandeered a university building in an anti-draft demonstration last spring.

Wackett said some persons appear to be losing confidence in the administration of the university president, Fred H. Harrington.

Assembly speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, said last week's outbreak "adds fire to my fight for higher out-of-state tuition."

Senate majority leader Jerris Leonard of Bayside has called for expulsion of student protesters.

Heated by Powell Case

Pressure Building For Ethics Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spurred by the Adam Clayton Powell case, pressure is increasing on and within the House for creation of a committee to keep tabs on ethics and conduct of congressmen.

A House decision on whether to seat Powell is scheduled Wednesday but action on the watchdog committee is somewhat farther off.

More than 40 proposals are pending before the House Rules Committee, some of whose members predict it will approve some sort of watchdog group for consideration by the House. The Senate set up such a committee several years ago. It now is investigating Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn.

"I feel reasonably sure that some action will be taken by the Rules Committee," chairman William M. Colmer, D-Miss., predicted today in an interview.

Select Committee

But Colmer said he doesn't know if it will approve creation of a new select committee — such as is favored by Rep. Charles E. Bennett, D-Fla., and most House Republicans — or whether it will give the job to a House Administration subcommittee headed by Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio.

Hays won plaudits from many members for his investigation last year of expenditures by Powell's Education and Labor Committee. The probe led to action by the Administration Committee directing the House clerk to drop Powell's estranged wife from the House payroll.

All five Republican Rules Committee members and Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., favor creation of a separate committee. The outcome will hinge on the votes of the other nine Rules Committee Democrats, several of whom say they are uncertain which way to vote.

Hearings Resume

The Rules Committee's hearings resume today, but Colmer said it was doubtful any action will be taken for two or three weeks.

Rep Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., who says he hasn't decided which kind of committee to support, said, "If we act fast, it will probably be a select committee, but the longer it takes, the better chance there is that Hays' committee will get the job, especially once this Powell thing dies down."

The Powell case comes before the House Wednesday with virtually all leaders from each party supporting a select committee's recommendation that the Harlem Democrat be given his seat along with a stiff censure, loss of all seniority and a $40,000 assessment against his future pay.

Marichal Says $125,000, or He'll Sit Out

Bunning Agrees To $80,000 Pact With Philadelphia

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

"Manager-second baseman" Juan Marichal says he's tired of reading the same thing and unless the San Francisco Giants do something about it, he will sit out this season.

What Marichal, who says he already has returned two contracts, wants to read is a pact with a $125,000-figure on it.

The Giants reportedly are offering him $90,000, an estimated $15,000 increase over last season, to pitch, not to manage or play second base as he currently is doing for his own softball team in the Dominican Republic.

"We're doing pretty good," Marichal said Tuesday. "We played 10 games already and we won six or seven."

San Francisco might have trouble winning six of 10 if they don't have Marichal on the mound.

Bunning Signs

While Marichal was waiting for satisfaction, pitcher Jim Bunning found some — a reported $80,000 worth — with the Philadelphia Phillies, who were helped by a good game of golf.

The salary, an estimated $10,000 boost, makes the 35-year-old Bunning the highest-paid player in Phillie history.

The veteran right-hander, who won 19 games in each of the last three seasons, was in a happy mood at Clearwater, Fla., saying he beat teammate Larry Jackson in golf Sunday with a 77 "and figured I could afford to take less than I wanted."

Another veteran pitcher, southpaw Steve Barber of Baltimore, came to terms Monday, but there was a condition put in his contract. His arm, which became sore last season, must hold up if he is to make more money.

The contract calling for an estimated $30,000, the same as his 1966 salary, states that if he remains on the active roster past May 11 he will get an increase, believed to be about $3,000.

Meanwhile, outfielder Adolfo Phillips was not at the Chicago Cubs' camp at Scottsdale, Ariz., which meant he was in the doghouse of Manager Leo Durocher.

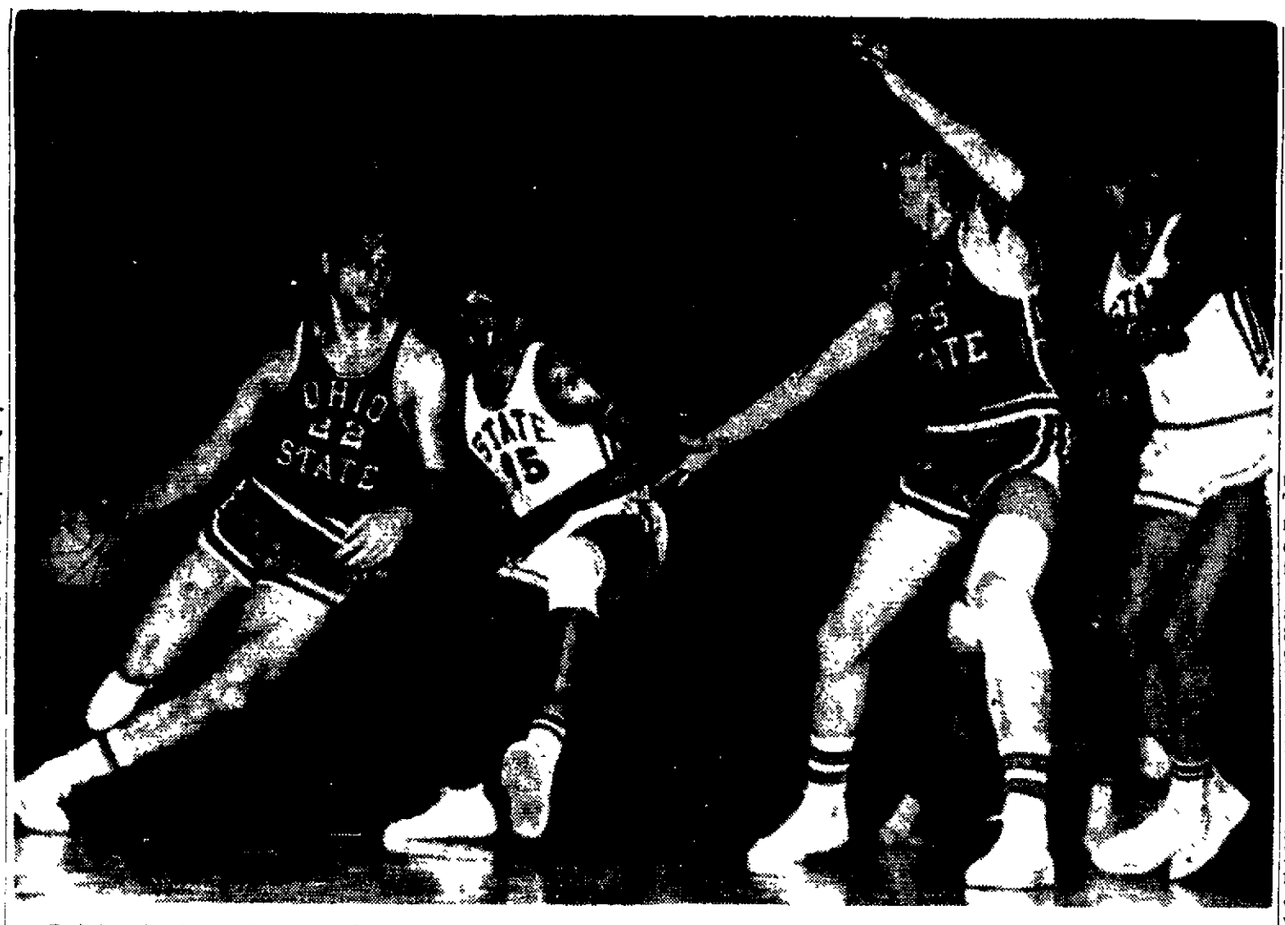

Hull Within Reach Of 50-Goal Year Record Third Time

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Hull of Chicago, with 40 goals thus far in the National Hockey League season, has a good chance of scoring 50 goals for the third year.

No other NHL player has scored 50 goals more than once. Only Bernie Geoffrion and Maurice Richard have had a 50-goal season.

Stan Mikita of Chicago leads in points with 78, followed by Hull with 59 and Norm Ullman of Detroit with 55.

Mikita is far ahead in assists with 50. Phil Goyette of New York is second with 41.

Driving in for a Score is Ohio State forward Ron Sepic (22) in action from Monday night's Ohio State-Michigan State game in East Lansing. Attemping to stop him are the Spartans' Mat Aitch (45) and Lee Lafayette (right), while teammate Bill Hosket acts as a guide. Sepic hit 15 points, but MSU won, 74-63. (AP Wirephoto)

Hoosiers Edge Past Wolves, Keep Lead

Win, 98-96; MSU Beats Ohio State

CHICAGO (AP) — Indiana maintained its steam in the Big Ten basketball lead Monday night while Michigan State took over second place to break a four-way logjam in that spot.

Harry Joyner scored 33 points as Indiana boosted its record to 8-3 in the title chase with a 98-96 victory over Michigan. The Wolverines drove to within two points in the last six minutes but intercepted passes by Joyner and Bill DeHeer in the dying seconds checked the drive.

Michigan State, 7-4, downed Ohio State 74-63 for its 19th straight Big Ten triumph at home. The Spartans bagged 58 rebounds with Lee Lafayette and John Bailey topping the attack with 17 points each.

Important Tilt Tonight

Wisconsin and Northwestern, each 6-4, tangle Tuesday night on the Wildcats' floor with the winner matching MSU in second place.

Iowa dropped back to 6-5 with a 78-75 loss to Purdue, locking the two teams in fifth place. The Boilermakers moved ahead 38-36 and never trailed with Roger Blalock's basket in the final nine seconds sealing it. Four players, led by Herman Gilliam's 18 points, headed Purdue. Iowa's Sam Williams and Gerry Jones each had 24.

Jim Dawson hit four baskets at the start of the second half to launch Illinois over Minnesota 84-71. The splurge put the Illini ahead 57-47 and the Gophers never came closer than seven points.

Dawson netted 31 points, 22 in the second half, while Tom Kondla guided Minnesota with 32 points, 18 in the first half.

Xavier Views Presence Of Another Heinritz on Team as Good Omen

Post-Crescent Sports Editor

When Appleton Xavier won its only state Catholic high school basketball championship (1963), one of its starters was named Heinritz—John.

When the Hawks start their bid for another title Friday in the 1967 state tourney, in Milwaukee, another Heinritz (John's brother, Tom) will be in the starting lineup. Xavier fans hope the presence of the younger Heinritz will produce an encore of '63 results.

John Heinritz was the center on the unbeaten 1963 Hawk team, whose other starters were "Kip" Whitlinger, "Rocky" Bleier, Dick Wiesner and Bob DeBruin. Tom Heinritz plays guard for the '67 Hawks whose pre-state tournament record is blemished only by a 71-69 loss to Marinette Central Catholic.

Brother Act

Xavier has still another "brother angle." Terry and Brad Graff form Xavier's first brother act on the same team. Terry is a senior starting guard while Brad, a sophomore backcourtman, is one of the Hawks' top reserves.

Coach Gene (Torcy) Clark is relying on more sophs than he has at any time since Xavier became a 4-class school six years ago. His four leading shock troopers — Brad Graff, Tom Thomson, Mike Clark and Bob Fullarton — are all sophomores and their play in "spot" situations could determine Xavier's fate in the state meet.

Brad Graff began the season as a regular, then lost the assignment to his brother. However, Brad has shown considerable poise for his youth and played strong floor games in the regional tourney games at Green Bay.

Thomson also had a strong regional tournament and has shown much recent progress. The 6-5 Thomson combined with center Dan Hardy to make Xavier rough to handle under the boards. Thomson also scored 12 points in the two games.

Hustling Mike Clark, the coach's son, is strong on defense and makes few ball-handling mistakes.

De Pere Pennings, the Hawks' tourney - opening foe, at 2 p.m. Friday, also features a talented sophomore — John Albers. Albers, who worked into the starting lineup only recently, starred in the Squires' upset win over Marinette. Albers is being given much of the credit for holding high - scoring

13 Lawrence Trackmen in Annual Meet

Vikings Considered Darkhorses for Indoor Competition

A squad of 13 trackmen will represent Lawrence University in the annual Midwest Conference indoor track meet Friday and Saturday at the University of Chicago.

The Vikings are considered darkhorse contenders in the meet, but defending champion Carleton and runnerup Cornell rule as the favorites of conference coaches.

Carleton has two of the three defending individual champions who will be back. Returning for the Carls are Bob Aby, senior shot-putter, and Prentice Gary, junior, low hurdles. The other returning champ is Fay Zirpolo, Coe, in the 60-yard dash. Zirpolo has won this event two years in succession.

Heads Contingent;

Heading the Lawrence contingent will be Chuck McKee, the conference outdoor champion in the long jump and low hurdles. In addition to that event, McKee is expected to enter the high jump and hurdle events. In last year's indoor test, McKee won the long jump, was second in the low hurdles and third in the highs.

Curt Mueller, of Lawrence, placed fourth in the pole vault in last year's indoor meet, but is not competing this weekend.

In addition to McKee, the Vikes will be represented by Mike Kissinger, long jump and dashes; Paul Henningsen and John Biolo, shot put; John Negley, pole vault; Ron Messman and Rick Miller, 60-yard dash. Jim Leslie, high and low hurdles; Steve Sedgwick and John Howe, 2-mile, and the relay teams will be made up of Chuck Porter, Wayne Draeger, Pete Schendel, Messman and Miller.

Don Boya will be acting coach for the Vikes since regular track coach Gene Davis will be at the conference meet with the Lawrence swim team.

Illinois Will Present Case To Big 10 by End of Week

Backing for Coaches Goes All Way to Governorship of State

CHICAGO (AP) — The countdown on the University of Illinois' irregular recruiting case now has started and will reach zero hour in several days.

On Thursday or Friday university President David D. Henry and legal counsel. Jim Costello, will present Illinois' appeal before the conference's faculty representatives in Chicago.

The nine representatives — Leslie Bryan of Illinois not sitting in—will hear the university present a "show cause" stand why Illinois should not be suspended or expelled from the Big Ten in declining to dismiss football Coach Pete Elliott, basketball Coach Harry Combes and his assistant, Howard Braun.

Conference athletic directors last week ordered that Illinois show this cause or fire the three coaches involved in the university's self-acknowledged illegal payments from a $21,000 fund.

Won't Resign

The Associated Press learned that prior to the directors' meeting, Dr. Henry called the three coaches to his office to review alternatives. One such was for them to offer their resignations. They rejected this and said they "will see the whole matter through to the end."

When the scandal first broke in December, Combes said he would resign if it would help the university. Nothing further was heard on this. In the meantime, the three coaches have remained silent.

Dr. Henry and the university now are determined to fight for retention of the coaches, who already have been placed on one year probation by the school.

The university also will ask for "the greatest possible ameliorative action under the rules" for seven football and four basketball players ruled ineligible for accepting aid from the fund, which was administered outside the school. Another basketball player involved has enrolled in another school.

Dr Henry is armed with backing from alumni, the Illinois High School Coaches Association, the football squad, the Board of Directors of the Illinois Athletic Association and Gov. Otto Kerner, as well as others.

In this year of 1967, when the university is celebrating its centennial, there is strong feeling, especially through alumni petitions, that Illinois withdraw from the Big Ten rather than bow to the edict of the athletic directors.

The faculty representatives are left on the hot seat. They admit they are not bound by the athletic directors' order and will have an open mind.

But can the pattern of harshness set by the directors be overlooked? And if it is, and a softening of the penalty is voted, would that leave the door open for the National Collegiate Athletic Association to wield a big blow?

Even when the Big Ten disposes of the case, the NCAA must decide if the penalty fits the crime.

Wilt Remains Terror Except At Foul Line

NEW YORK (AP) — When basketball player Wilt Chamberlain has to work for what he gets, he is a statistical wonder. But give him something free and he falls flat on his percentage.

The Philadelphia 76er superpro, working harder than ever at all phases of the game, leads the National Basketball Association in field goal percentage and rebounds and is third in assists and fourth in scoring, statistics showed today.

After hitting 31 straight shots last week — one short of the record which he tries to break tonight against Cincinnati — Chamberlain raised his field goal percentage to 69.6 per cent.

He has hauled in 1,635 rebounds, or 24.4 a game, and scored 1,659 points, 24.8 a game. He also has assisted on 510 baskets, 7.6 a contest, more than any other big man in NBA history.

Woes at Charity Stripe

But stand him at the free throw line, unguarded and unrushed, and he hits only 44.2 per cent.

Adrian Smith of Cincinnati tops the league with 89.9 per cent.

Rick Barry of San Francisco remains the leader in scoring with 2,393 points for a 36.8 point a game average. He is followed by Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati with 2,052 or a 30.6 average, and Jerry West of Los Angeles with 1,722 points, 29.2.

Guy Rodgers of Chicago leads in assists with 782, or 11.3 a game, ahead of Robertson's 713 and 10.6.

Vikes to Face Ripon '5' Again

St. Olaf Meets Carleton in Only MC Game Tonight

Beloit College, having lost an opportunity of virtually clinching the Midwest Conference basketball championship, gets another opportunity Friday when it faces its chief challenger, Cornell.

The Buccaneers will have to continue their title bid on Cornell's home court in Mount Vernon, Iowa, and are at winless Grinnell of Iowa Saturday.

Cornell (11-3) defeated third-place Knox a week ago putting the pressure on the league-leading Bucs. Knox put down Beloit 60 - 53 Saturday, and Cornell would have climbed into the loop lead had not it lost to St. Olaf the same day.

Ripon is 9 - 6 in fourth place behind Knox (11 - 5) and Lawrence a loser to Ripon last week, is eighth 5-10.

St. Olaf, 8 - 7 behind Ripon meets Carleton tonight. In Friday games, Monmouth is at St. Olaf, Knox is at Carleton, Coe is at Grinnell.

Lawrence is at Ripon Saturday, Knox faces St Olaf, Monmouth meets Carleton and Coe is at Cornell.

Platteville Wins Tourney Opener, 61-38

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Platteville kicked off the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association's annual high school basketball tournament with a savage 61-38 conquest of a former titlist Monday night.

The Hillmen downed Dodgeville in the Lancaster subregional while River Falls, host to a subregional, defeated Hudson 68-57 in the only other tourney action.

The bulk of the competition gets underway tonight with more than 170 subregional games on the road leading to the March 18 title game in Madison.

Platteville, now 18 - 0 and ranked sixth last week The Associated Press poll of major prep powers, pulled away from a 9-9 tie to a 10-point halftime advantage.

80 Amateurs Advance

3 State Boxers in Quarter-Final Bouts

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Three Wisconsin boxers, all fighting under the Milwaukee banner, will be competing in the quarterfinals of the national Golden Gloves tournament tonight.

John Paul of Kenosha will be a contender in the light-heavyweight class after his second - round technical knockout over Charles Taylor of Jackson, Tenn., Monday night.

Mike Kiefer, a 125 - pounder, and Lew Boyd, a 139-pounder, both from Milwaukee, will also be competing.

Paul is paired with Frank Jones of Knoxville, Tenn. Kiefer meets Dick Cole of Fort Worth, Tex., and Boyd goes against Frank Flores, Salt Lake City, Utah.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Clay Hodges of Los Angeles leads a field of 80 amateur boxers into the quarter finals of the annual Golden Gloves national boxing tournament tonight.

Hodges, a runnerup in the prestige-laden heavyweight division a year ago, was impressive in his two opening bouts Monday night.

Scoring heavily with straight right and left hands, the Californian put away Terry Daniels of Fort Worth, Tex., in his first fight, and came back to deck Cy Foy of Charlotte, N.C., in the second.

Daniels gave Hodges a moment of embarrassment in the first round, landing a left hook that dropped Hodges to the canvass. Hodges quickly regained his feet, and his poise, and ended the fight in the second round.

Head-Hunter

Hodges goes against headhunting Chuck Haynes of Detroit tonight.

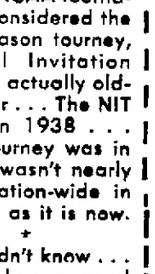

Another 1966 runnerup, John Griffin of Cleveland, looked sharp in stopping Ricardo Rodriquez of Salt Lake City and outpointing William Radcliff of Louisville to move to the light heavyweight quarterfinals against Bernie Jones of Cincinnati.

Perhaps the most polished-looking fighter in the tournament is a 156 - pounder, Jesse Valdez of Fort Worth, Tex., who is matched with Frankie Futch of Cincinnati tonight.

Valdez' explosive combinations stopped Warren Kenville of Minneapolis and Henry Johnson of Indianapolis Monday night.

Four bouts are scheduled in 10 weight divisions tonight. The 40 survivors move on to semifinals and finals Wednesday night.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Here's a basketball puzzler for you . . . Suppose a team gets many fouls called on it, with one player after another fouling out and soon they have no substitutes to replace the disqualified players — and they have only four players left . . . They can't put the required five players on the floor . . . What happens then? . . . Does the game stop? . . . The official rules say a team must keep on playing even if it has only four or fewer players remaining.

8 Lettermen To Open Track At New London

Three Competed in 1966 State Finals; New Facility Ready

NEW LONDON — A nucleus of eight lettermen, including three who competed in the state finals in 1966, will begin practice for the 1967 track season March 13.

Coach Ken Renning's team will compete on home grounds for the first time in more than five years this season. A new surfaced track was completed last fall and will be ready for competition this year.

Henry Linke, the school record holder in the shot put with a heave of 46-8; Bruce Krueger, record holder in the discus at 146-9, and Bruce Feurig, top performer in the low and high hurdles and broad jump in 1966, earned berths in the state contest last year.

Other top performances of Bulldog cindermen turned in during 1966 were turned in by Gary Slosarek, 220-yard dash and Rusty Yeager, 440-yard run.

Shawano Meet

A dual meet with Shawano on April 20 and a traingular meet with Clintonville and Waupaca April 28, are the only scheduled contests for the New London trackmen.

New London will open the season at the Manitowoc Invitational March 31.

Ken VerGowe Repeats as Top Scorer

Cedar Grove Center Leads EWC With 24.7 Average

CHILTON — Ken VerGowe, Cedar Grove's 6'4" all-conference center and defending league scoring champion, repeated as the Eastern Wisconsin 1966-67 basketball scoring leader with 319 points in 13 games.

VerGowe won the 1965-66 title with 333 points in 13 games for an average of slightly more than 25 points a game. This year he averaged 24.7 points per game.

The championship club of Sheboygan Falls produced the individual runnerup in Larry Mueller. The six-foot senior hit for 272 points in 13 games. Chilton, a team, which finished in the second division, was the only school to have two players listed among the top 10 individual scorers. They are Don McHugh and John Hauser.

The top 10 leading scorers are:

Ford Frick Gets Consultant Position Under Mayor Lindsay

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick was appointed by Mayor John V. Lindsay today as a $75-a day consultant to the city's manpower and career development agency.

The mayor said that Frick would work with the city's business community "to open up opportunities and career lines" for the unemployed.

Frick, 72, resigned last year after serving 15 years as baseball commissioner.

In announcing the appointment, Lindsay said, "Mr. Frick is a man who can inspire young people to great achievement and who can open doors throughout our private enterprise system for the fullest possible utilization of manpower and talent that now go unused."

He said Frick would serve as liaison between business and industry and the manpower agency, which is an adjunct of the human resources administration.

A native of Indiana, Frick started his career as a teacher, but switched to journalism after several years, working as a newspaperman and radio commentator. He lives with his wife, Eleanor, in Bronxville, N. Y.

Tar Heels Rise To Third Place

UCLA Still Tops In Next-to-Last AP Basketball Poll

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

North Carolina's Tar Heels climbed into third place in the next-to-last poll of the 1966-67 major college basketball season. Boston College moved back into the Top Ten and UCLA was the unanimous leader for the seventh consecutive week today.

The latest balloting of The Associated Press' national panel based on games through last Saturday gave UCLA all 32 first-place votes.

Louisville held the runner-up position while the sports writers and broadcasters participating in the poll placed North Carolina in the No. 3 spot, a gain of two positions.

UCLA lifted its record to 23-0 by trouncing Washington 71-43 and Washington State 100-78 last week. Louisville split two games, beating Drake 86-63 before bowing to Wichita 84-78. The Cardinals have a 23-3 mark.

North Carolina, 20-3, downed Maryland and Virginia Tech. Kansas, winner of Oklahoma State and Missouri, held fourth place. The Tar Heels drew 212 points based on 10 points for a first place, 9 for second etc. and edged Kansas by only eight points.

Princeton advanced one notch to fifth after defeating Columbia 97-45 and Cornell 81-66 for a 22-2 mark. Western Kentucky, beaten by Murray 75-69, slipped from third to sixth.

1. UCLA (32) 320
2. Louisville 253
3. North Carolina 212
4. Kansas 204
5. Princeton 176
6. Western Kentucky 139
7. Houston 135
8. Tennessee 74
9. Texas Western 52
10. Boston College 42

Muskies Beat Milton, Face Oshkosh Next

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jim Kueter pleased the hometown fans Monday night as his Lakeland College teammates closed out their Gateway Conference basketball season with a 98-72 conquest of Milton.

The Muskies now can look ahead to a March 6 date against State University Conference champion Oshkosh in the NAIA playoffs matching a 23-3 over-all record against the Titans.

Lakeland has won twice in three days at Howards Grove's new high school gymnasium, native country for Kueter. Howards Grove had asked the Muskies to schedule a couple of games there in honor of its local talent.

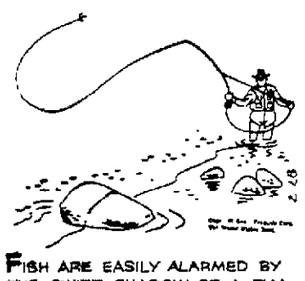

Kueter scored 21 points against Milton for a career total of 1,021 and became only the eighth player in Lakeland history to pass the 1,000-point level.

Scoring honors, however, went to Lakeland ace Gary Hovey who tallied 23 points raising his output for the season to 695 — a school record.

AVOID CASTING OVER A FISH

FISH ARE EASILY ALARMED BY THE SWIFT SHADOW OF A FLY LINE BEING "FALSE CAST" DIRECTLY OVERHEAD—THIS HAS THE SAME EFFECT AS IF A LURE WERE SPLASHED RIGHT OVER THEM; THEY WILL DASH FOR COVER OR SULK UNTIL THEY THINK IT SAFE TO RESUME FEEDING.

AN INACTIVE FISH MAY BE LYING BESIDE A STUMP, LOG, OR ROCK, WAITING FOR FOOD TO APPEAR WHEN A THOUGHTLESS CAST ALARMS HIM. HIS DEPARTURE MAY GO UNNOTICED.

Bobcats Duel Waterloo in Pivotal Series

U. S. HOCKEY LEAGUE

	W	L	T	Pts.
Green Bay	13	10	3	29
Waterloo	12	10	0	24
Rochester	11	12	2	24
Marquette	7	16	2	14

(Affiliated U.S. Nationals have 13-8-2 record).

GREEN BAY — Sabotaged by Marquette's last-place Iron Rangers, the front-running Green Bay Bobcats face a showdown with the Waterloo Black Hawks here this weekend.

The Bobcats, 8-4 victims at Marquette last Saturday night, clash with the defending champion Hawks at the Brown County Veterans Memorial Arena Saturday night and Sunday afternoon.

The defeat at Marquette left this weekend's rivals dead even in the loss column with 10 each, but the Hawks now have eight more games to play and the Bobcats only four, which makes it incumbent upon the Green Bay skaters to sweep the upcoming series.

The Green Bay icemen may find their title task complicated by the loss of veteran Stu Anderson, who suffered a shoulder separation in the game at Marquette.

Titans Down Whitewater '5'

Eau Claire Ties Stout for Second; Pointers Defeated

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Eau Claire's Stan Johnson may have deprived Superior's Jim Sevals of a second State University Conference scoring crown. At least he kept Stout from being undisputed runner-up for the loop championship.

The Bluegolds thumped Stout 84-75 Monday night while conference champion Oshkosh defeated Whitewater 92-78, and La Crosse downed Stevens Point 81-69.

Johnson was Sevals' main threat all season as the Superior State ace aimed at a second consecutive scoring title. Both men were averaging about 26 points a game toward the close of the season.

Hits 37 Points

Johnson went ahead Saturday night scoring 37 points against River Falls while Sevals was getting 27 points in an upset over Stout.

Johnson capped his season's end output with 39 points Monday against Stout.

The pair of losses by Stout dropped the Blue Devils into a tie for second place with Eau Claire. Superior's victory Saturday had assured Oshkosh of the loop crown.

Stout and Eau Claire end their conference season with 11-5 records. Oshkosh, 14-2 as its final loop record, meets Lakeland March 6 in the NAIA playoffs.

The Titans, having recovered from Steven Point's upset victory, kept control of Whitewater which never got within six points of the lead in the second half.

Ron Hayek, another player high in the WSUC scoring lists, led Oshkosh with 25 points.

La Crosse guards led the scoring pace against Stevens Points, Gene Loughrin collecting 23 points and John Mitich 20.

Vikings' Roberts Gets Mail From Pro Teams About McKee

What does the coach of a championship college football squad do during his off-season?

A lot more than polish up the trophy. He answers mail from the professional teams inquiring about his stars.

That is the experience of Ron Roberts, Lawrence University grid mentor whose team ended the season in November in a 3-way tie for the Midwest Conference crown.

Roberts' star quarterback, junior Chuck McKee, is the subject of the mail. Roberts thinks McKee is professional material, and indications are that there are a good number of pros who agree with him.

Here is what McKee did during the 1966 season, as the Vikes won seven and lost one: he scored 68 points (11 touchdowns and a post-TD run), to rank third in the Midwest Conference scoring. He made 149 rushing attempts for 715 yards, an average of 4.4 yards per carry. He attempted 139 passes, completed 62 for a percentage of .446 and a total of 901 yards. His passing average per attempt was 6.5 yards; his completions averaged 14.5 yards; he passed for seven touchdowns. He punted 35 times for 1,282 yards and an average of 36.6. McKee was named first team all-conference quarterback and was named by his teammates as "most valuable back", as well as co-captain for 1967.

Virginia Tegen Paces Women's Loop With 539

Virginia Tegen and Ruth Wiese each rolled games of 198 and Virginia posted a 539 series, and Ruth had a 520 to feature bowling in the Kitchen Cheaters League at Hahn's Lanes Monday.

Leone Uetzmann had a 511 series and other honor scores included Ruth Finch 508, Marge Dorn, 191 and Elda Schmidt 190.

Joan Giesen fired a 201 game and 533 series to lead the action in the Sherwood Ladies League at Michiels Bowl. Runnerup honors in series went to Betty Ashauer with a 512 aggregate which included a 190 game. Other high games included Helen Michiels 192 and Patti Allenberg 191.

Mary Lou Fainsworth and Vivian Riedel each had games of 196 in the Lucky League at Sabre Lanes Monday. Mary Lou edged Vivian for series honors by one pin, 524 to 523.

Alice Worden had a 191 game and Janice Tierney had a 190 for the only honor counts in the South Side Ladies League at the 41 Bowl Monday.

Carol Wildenberg Has 245 Game

Audrey Bazile Powers 560 For Couples Pin Loop High

Audrey Bazile blasted a 204 game and 560 series to lead the women keglers in the Football Couples League at Sabre Lanes.

Top score for the men was a 581 series by Larry Peterson.

Carol Wildenberg powered a 245 game to take ladies individual honors in the Bird Couples League at the Little Chute Recreation Lanes last weekend.

Carol missed the 100-pins-over-average award by one pin since she has a 146 average in the loop. Other high scores included a 233 by Ed Spierings, 192 by Eva Jansen and 190 by Dorothy Luedtke.

Harry Sheets slammed a 255 game and Jack Stingle had a 631 series to divide honors in the Cocktail Couples League at Sabre Lanes Saturday night.

Sheets finished with a 580 set and Stingle had a 241 game with his high series. Other honor scores included Rudy Vitek 589, Larry Laus 565, Bob Stumpf 553, Lois Bressers 507 and Bev Behrent 503.

Toby DeBruin smacked a 575 series to lead keglers in the Beer Couples League at the Village Lanes, Little Chute. Only other honor scores were a 559 by Floyd Hammen and a 553 by Marv Vandenberg.

Nita Waters had the only honor score in the Comic Couples League at Sabre Lanes Sunday night as she rolled a 196 game.

Ruth Feldman's 525 series set the pace for keglers in the Cigarette Couples League at Sabre Lanes Sunday.

Ken Uhlenbrauck fired a 591 series to lead the action in the Baseball Couples League. Jim Landremann had a 551 aggregate.

Larry Wichman had a 554 series to lead the men keglers in the Jerry's Bar Satellite League at Jerry's Lanes, Kimberly. Betty Mischler led the women with a 203 singleton.

Ken Kress had a 226 game and Ken Bastian fired a 591 series to divide honors in the Swingers Couples League at Sabre Lanes Saturday.

Kress finished with a 585 series and the only other honor score was a 225 by Pete Koepsel.

A 585 series by Chet Steiner was the lone honor score in the Card Couples League at Sabre Lanes Saturday night.

Joan Hawkins fired a pair of 191 games and finished with a 529 series for high series in the Pill Mixed League at Sabre Lanes Saturday.

June Buchanan rolled a 206 game for high in that department and finished with a 507 series.

Jack Burgess had a 234 game and 581 series to lead the way in the Fish Couples League at Sabre Lanes.

Mildred Schaefer smacked a 501 series to lead the South Greenville Grange Couples League at Sabre Lanes.

"Rocky" Slawinski to an almost unbelieveably low total of one field goal and nine points — none of which came in the first half.

After Saturday's game, Marinette Coach Marty Crowe said, "They (Pennings) played a box and one against us and this is one thing I've been afraid of all year that someone will use and it had to be tonight. Their boy (Albers) had Slawinski bottled up all night."

The Squires dominated the boards against Marinette and kept up with the smaller Cavaliers in the fast break phase for the first three periods. When Marinette's speed finally began to take its toll, it was too late. With only 11 minutes, 14 seconds left in the game, Pennings led by 26 points. Marinette cut 18 points off that margin down the stretch.

Pennings Coach Don LaViolette noted, "We handled their press pretty good by just passing the ball."

Xavier showed, in its title victory over Lourdes, that it could execute the fast break attack and the slow-down game, with equal skill. After building up a big lead, the Hawks controlled the ball for most of the final four or five minutes with near-flawless passing and timing.

Xavier fans bought more tickets than those of any of the other three schools who participated in the Regions 4 and 5 finals Saturday. The crowd of approximately 4,000 brought the 3-night total to almost 9,000. It seems certain that with such demonstrated support, the two tournaments will be combined at the Brown County Arena again next year.

Xavier's pre-tourney practice session at the Milwaukee Arena is scheduled for 3 p.m. Thursday.

In addition to Xavier's appearance, Prairie du Chien Campion will bring a Fox Cities flavor into the state tourney. Its coach is Clem Massey, former Menasha High School player and coach. After being out of coaching one year, Massey returned this season to take the Campion assignment.

Eighth-Rated Vols Upset by Alabama

Western Kentucky, Texas Western Keep Rolling; Kentucky Beaten

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Wallflower Alabama stopped the music momentarily on the Tennessee waltz toward the Southeastern Conference basketball title Monday night, but the Vols danced on.

Eighth-ranked Tennessee got its feet tangled at Tuscaloosa and tripped over the Crimson Tide 53-50, but managed ahalf-game lead when Mississippi State swept Vanderbilt off the floor 74-71 at Starkville.

Idle Florida broke in on Vanderbilt and replaced the Commodores in second place. The Vols are 13-3, Florida 13-4 and Vanderbilt 12-4 in their whirl for the crown and an NCAA tournament bid.

Easy Wins

Western Kentucky and Texas Western, with NCAA bids wrapped up, protected their Top Ten rankings with ease. The third-ranked Hilltoppers crowned Austin Peay 116-75 at Bowling Green and the Miners, No. 9, pushed aside Arizona State 61-51 at Tempe.

Independents Georgia Tech and Chicago Loyola, trying to cut in on an NIT bid, breezed along while another hopeful, Clemson of the Atlantic Coast Conference, stumbled.

The Engineers 17-9, paced by Ted Tomasovich's 27 points, stopped Miami of Florida 90-84 while Jim Tillman scored 39 points as Loyola, 14-9, clobbered Bowling Green 110-93 for its fifth straight victory.

But Clemson, 17-7, lost a 69-60 lead as Virginia's Chip Case scored 27 points in a 73-71 upset.

Out Defensed

Alabama, 6-10 in the SEC, stepped on Tennessee's feet by outrebounding and outdefensing the nation's defensive leader. Gary Ludwig's only point of th game gave the Tide a 53-50 lead. Ron Widby scored for Tennessee with 38 seconds left and the Vols got one more chance, but Tom Hendrix missed a shot at the buzzer.

Vanderbilt had a 10-point lead early in the second half but Mississippi State 8-8 in the league, pulled ahead 62-60 on two baskets by Dave Williams. The Commodores trailed by only one with 16 seconds left, but State's Tom Payne ended any hopes with a field goal 11 seconds later.

Hasking Back

Dwight Smith led Kentucky Western with 27 points as the Hilltoppers celebrated the return of Clem Haskins to the lineup after he missed five games with a wrist injury. He scored 16 points.

Texas Western finished with a 20-5 record after Dave Palacio and Dave Lattin brought it back from a 31-28 deficit and finished with 16 points each.

Kentucky lost again in Coach Adolph Rupp's worst season. Auburn beat the Wildcats 60-49, leaving Kentucky with a 12-12 mark. No other Rupp-coached Wildcat team had lost more than 10.

Basketball's Hall of Fame Seeking Relics

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — A nationwide search is under way for basketball relics and souvenirs — the older the better.

"We need memorabilia as much as we need money," says Lee Williams, executive secretary of the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame, which is scheduled to open later this year.

The shrine already has quite a collection of historic items, but Williams believes there must be thousands of others strewn around the country.

Williams wants to display as many historic items as possible when the Hall opens in late summer or early fall on the Springfield College campus where Dr. James Naismith is credited with inventing the game in 1891.

Among the prize items already in the collection are a set of the original rules, handwritten by Naismith in 1891, and a ball and basket from that same year.

Present Awards To Rifle Club At Waupaca

WAUPACA — Awards were presented to several members of the Waupaca Hot Shots Junior Rifle Club at a parents night program Wednesday at the Armory.

The club, which has a membership of 66 area youths, meet weekly at the armory to shoot. Organized under the National Rifle Association the club is now being sponsored by the Waupaca Kiwanis Club. F. "Skipper" Cary is the advisor and coach of the club and Neil Krause, Iola, is the shooting instructor.

Officers of the club are Larry Behm, president; Jim Minton, vice president, and Steve Smith, secretary-treasurer.

Plans were made at the meeting for the club members to attend the Milwaukee Sport Show.

Mel Laabs Posts 646 Series to Pace Loop In Weyauwega

WEYAUWEGA — Mel Laabs posted games of 210 and 245 en route to a 646 series for top honors in the regular league at Radtke's Recreation Thursday night.

Ethel Doede rolled a 484 for high series and Barb Radtke hit a 194 singleton for high game in the Ladies League.

Dave Yonke hit a 211 game, finishing with a 562 series to lead the way in the Classic League on Wednesday night. Other honor tallies were Bob Radtke 216-558 and John Sullivan 548.

In the Fremont Ladies League, Millie Stelow rolled a 173, finishing with a 491 and Phyliss Abraham posted a 178 game, finishing with a 487 series.

Joan Arndt Bowls 559 Series in Loop Action at Manawa

MANAWA — Joan Arndt bowled a 559 series for Lloyd's as they took two from IGA in Ladies Thursday Night League at Berndt's Bowl. Her high series included singles of 144, 193 and 222. Esther Beck had a 185 for Lloyd's.

Damrau's took two from Booth's behind Mary Lou Flater's 520 series which included singles of 156, 176 and 188. VerLea Beck had a 182 for Damrau's.

Beverly Mengert rolled a 511 series, with a 204 single, for Berndt's as they took two from Cedar Springs to remain in a tie for first place with Damrau's. Christal Larson had a 182 for Berndt's.

Lema Tourney Title Won by Frank Beard

MARCO ISLAND, Fla. (AP) — A 4-under-par 68 won the first annual Tony Lema Memorial Tournament, and $500, for golf pro Frank Beard.

Deadlocked behind him at 70 Monday on the 6-661-yard Marco Island Country Club Course were Bob Toski, Raymond Floyd, Andy Beljan and Gay Brewer. They won $415 each.

Lema, who was pro at Marco Island for a year, was killed last year in a plane crash.

Meet Scheduled For Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — The sixth annual Catholic Boys Conference Grade School basketball tournament will take place in Holy Cross School gym March 3-12

Teams entered include Sacred Heart, St. Patrick, St. Bernadette, St. Margaret Mary, St. John of Menasha, Holy Name of Jesus, St. Gabriel, Holy Cross, St. Mary of Appleton, St. Joseph, St. Thomas More, St Pius, St. John of Little Chute, Precious Blood, St. Mary of Menasha, and St. Therese.

268 Tops Chilton Bowling League

CHILTON — Ken Seehauer rolled a big 268 game and 636 series to lead the Arcade Lanes of Fond du Lac to two wins over the Pla-Mor Lanes in the Sunday Traveling Classic bowling league at Chilton.

Seehauer ran three strikes in a row in the final game before leaving a one-pin spare in the fourth frame. He then scored six straight strikes before leaving the seven pin on his second ball in the tenth frame.

Chilton won the first game 946-822 but lost the final two matches, 958-845 and 1,004-945.

Chick Hawig topped the Chilton five with a 593 series while Speedy Keip added a respectable 585 total.

Mrs. Walter Olp Posts 527 at Brillion

BRILLION — Mrs. Walter Olp posted a 527 series for Doughty's team in women's league bowling Thursday at Koffarnus Lanes.

Other top scores were Mrs. Robert Mathiebe's 210 game for Jensen's Bar team, Mrs. Elver Krueger's 523 series and 190 game for Warren's Skelly team and Mrs. Jerry Vondrachek's 505 series for Brillion Hardware team.

Warren's and Jensen's teams are tied in first place with 50-22 records. Pete's follows with a 48-24 count and Brillion Sport Shop with a 46½-25½ record.

New Bill for Scenic Rivers Includes Wolf

The Wolf River is one of nine waterways included in a bill introduced Monday by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., to create a national system of scenic rivers.

Jackson, chairman of the Senate Interior Committee, said there will be hearings on the measure by his committee April 13-14.

The bill, he said, is similar to one which passed the Senate last year, proposing an initial system of nine rivers. The bill also proposes that 35 rivers be studied.

The nine scenic rivers or parts of them, are the Wolf, Wisconsin, the Salmon and Middle Fork of the Clearwater, Idaho; the Rogue, Oregon; the Rio Grande, New Mexico; Eleven Point, New Mexico; Eleven Point, Arkansas and Missouri; Cacapon and Shenandoah, West Virginia, and the St. Croix, Minnesota.

Guerin Stars In 105-94 St. Louis Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Old pro Richie Guerin showed the young fellows how it's done. His 19-point second half led St. Louis past Detroit 105-94 Monday night in the only National Basketball Association game scheduled.

The victory kept the Hawks in second place in the Western Division.

The 34-year-old player-coach of the Hawks finished with 25 points, helping the club end a five-game losing streak. His big second half was needed to offset an 18-point last half by Eddie Miles of the Pistons.

Guerin dazzled a crowd of 8,156 in Kansas City with his drives and jumpers. He even threw in a long bank shot and a long two-hander. Joe Caldwell scored 20, Zelmo Beaty 23 and Bill Bridges 17 plus 15 rebounds for St. Louis.

Teen Charged In Robbery Gets Counsel

Waupaca Attorney Will Represent David E. Kealiher

WAUPACA — David E. Kealiher, 19, route 1, Amherst, who has been charged with the attempted robbery of the First National Bank and robbery of the Northern Bell Service Station Friday night, has retained Waupaca attorney Laurie Anderson as his legal counsel.

Kealiher was arraigned before County Judge Wendell McHenry Monday and informed of his rights for legal counsel which would be provided for him if he did not have money to retain an attorney.

When first informed of his rights for counsel, Kealiher said he did not want to be represented by an attorney but changed his mind when he was informed by Judge McHenry that he would not hear the case until Kealiher had an attorney.

Counsel was retained by Kealiher's parents who were present in court Monday.

Kealiher allegedly attempted to obtain $2,000 from the First National bank Friday evening, when he presented a note to a bank teller saying that he had a gun and wanted the money. After being turned down by the teller, Kealiher is accused of going to the Northern Bell Service Station on Royalton Street and robbing a 14-year-old attendant of $46. Kealiher was taken into custody a short time after the service station robbery.

Ogdensburg Man Cut When Auto Slams Into Ditch Near Iola

WAUPACA — Richard L. Johnson, 33, route 1, Ogdensburg, suffered a cut on his nose at 12:05 a.m., Sunday when the car he was driving left State 161, seven miles east of Iola and struck two mailboxes before running into the ditch.

Johnson was taken to the Iola hospital by a passing motorist.

Johnson told county police he was traveling east on State 161 when he was blinded by the lights of an oncoming car and lost control of his car on ice. Damage to the Johnson car was estimated at more than $400.

Appleton Youth Found Guilty of Resisting Arrest

Robert Mader, 19, 1221 S. Madison St., Monday afternoon was found guilty of resisting arrest, a charge brought following a disturbance with Appleton police in the 200 block of E. College Avenue March 5, 1966.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller, who found the youth guilty and fined him $25 and costs or 12 days in jail, dismissed a companion charge of disorderly conduct.

The court was told during the hour-long trial, held without a jury, that Mader and another youth came out of a restaurant when they were stopped by a patrolman who attempted to question them in regard to an alleged incident inside the restaurant.

Police testified Mader refused to give his name or show identification and began walking away when told he was under arrest. Mader also refused to give any information at the police station, the court was told.

A patrolman testified Mader slapped away his hand when he (the patrolman) placed it on the youth's arm The incident occurred about 1:45 a.m.

Wisconsin and Mississippi River Pollution

The fact that a Manitowoc man, Guido Rahr, is a member of the Wisconsin Conservation Commission and is also chairman of the board of a company which is listed as one of the polluters of the Mississippi River has diverted much public attention from the real problems revealed in a recently published federal report on that boundary river between Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Attorney General Bronson LaFollette, who spends much more time investigating means of keeping his name in newspaper headlines than he does with the affairs of his office, demanded that Governor Knowles ask for Mr. Rahr's resignation from the commission. And he seemed to indicate that this would go a long way toward curing the critical problems of the great river.

Putting Mr. LaFollette's political ambitions aside for the moment, Wisconsin attention should be focused on the pollution problem of the Mississippi.

The guts of the federal report is that the segment of the river below the Twin Cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul is a "zone of degradation," a "zone of active decomposition," where the water quality is such that "it was consistently suitable for only one use — cooling water."

About 70 per cent of the pollutants dumped into the river come from the Minneapolis-St. Paul Sewer District and that of South St. Paul. The MSSD provides only primary sewage treatment, and to further complicate the problem there is no separation of storm and sanitary sewers in the metropolitan area so that raw sewage is flushed into the river from some 80 outlets whenever storm runoff overloads the sewers.

A total of 14 manufacturing and processing plants on the Mississippi were listed as contributing to the pollution, another 11 on the Minnesota River and 2 on the St. Croix. The Rahr Malting Co. plant at Shakopee on the Minnesota River was one of these.

Mr. Rahr was recently honored by the National Wildlife Federation as "Conservationist of the Year" for 1966. So the involvement of his company in the federal report naturally made news. Governor Knowles presented him with the award. In replying to LaFollette's call for Rahr's resignation from the Conservation Commission, Gov. Knowles told another side of the story. He read from letters he had received from Minnesota water pollution officials telling of pollution abatement efforts the Shakopee plant had instituted voluntarily.

Whenever the spectre of water pollution arises, there are certain political figures who single out private industry for attack. In this instance the personal attack on Mr. Rahr completely ignores the fact on the one hand that his company is trying to do something about its problem, while on the other hand the metropolis of Minneapolis-St. Paul is so obviously failing to take advantage of modern sewage disposal technology and has fouled its waters to the extent that the river below the cities is practically putrid.

The Class of 007

Radios for School Buses

Anxious hours might have been avoided during last week's blizzard if the school bus stranded on a Waushara County road had been equipped with a two-way radio.

Nobody knew quite where the bus was, only that it hadn't been seen since shortly after leaving the school at Plainfield, with a full load of youngsters. It had disappeared in the howling whiteness.

School and highway department officials came in for sharp criticism from parents understandably overwrought when erroneous information of the vehicle's whereabouts trickled in and rescue attempts aborted.

Ironically, the Tri-County School District had asked its contract bus fleet owner to install radios and all newer buses had the equipment. But the stranded bus wasn't new.

With radio communication the driver could have given a quick and accurate account of his location and a snowplow could have been dispatched directly to the scene. There would have been no trudging through a blinding storm in search of a farmhouse telephone.

The suggestion of school bus radios would doubtless bring derisive snorts and the label of "frills" from an urban school board. And the opinions might be justified. But for the districts whose bus routes reach far out into the country where roads are narrow and farms are few and far between, two-way radios for school buses warrant more serious consideration.

What About Gas in Yemen?

A great many countries made official protests or howled in unofficial outrage when the news came out some months ago that the United States forces in Vietnam sometimes used tear gas to rout suspected Viet Cong sympathizers from sensitive positions. But how many know that the Egyptian Air Force used poison gas on royalist Yemenis in two attacks and killed about 300?

The gas is believed to be phosgene which causes severe swelling of the lungs, not always fatal but often so. The Egyptians are opposed to the royalist cause in Yemen because they think they can control the rebel government while the royalists would be more friendly to Saudi Arabia, Egypt's principal rival for influence in all of the Middle East. According to reports, the Egyptians used the gas both to get at royalists holed up in caves and to scare the Saudi Arabians into keeping out of more active participation in the civil war.

The Yemen Relief Committee of Britain has shipped some 250 gas masks of World War II vintage to the Yemen Legation in Saudi Arabia and they will be distributed to royalists in Yemen.

So far there hasn't been a sign or sound of protest before the United Nations General Assembly, on editorial pages or among church groups over this "inhuman" type of warfare.

Dead or Alive

It's hard to think of anything more foolish than the "dead or alive" reward offered in Boston for the capture of Albert De Salvo.

Of course everyone was concerned that De Salvo be apprehended as quickly as possible and returned to custody presumably under more secure guard. The nature of the crimes for which he was convicted and the many more to which he had confessed indicated that he was far outside of self-control. Wherever he went and under whatever conditions, he would be a menace.

But his escape and the necessary publicity alarmed a whole section of the nation. Panic is a contagious disease. While some people might have shot at a suspect in any case, the award might well have encouraged others to grab the first gun at hand and gun down any man who remotely resembled De Salvo. The store operator who did quietly go to call the police after he recognized the suspect is to be highly commended for his clarity of thought and his calm.

But those who offered the dead or alive reward should have second thoughts before another such case opens up. We are just lucky that there was not a rash of shootings all done in the name of justice.

Looking Backward

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Feb. 23, 1867.

Yesterday morning (Friday, Feb. 22, 1867) at about 4 o'clock, an alarm of fire was given, and it was found that the upper story of the Post Office Building on Oneida Street was in flames.

The first floor was occupied by the Post Office, U.S. Deputy Assessor's office, and Mr. Goff's office.

The upper story was occupied by a select school, and the office of Dr. M. F. Page.

Everything of consequence was saved from the first floor, but nothing was got out of the upper story. E. C. Goff owned the building. It was worth about $800 and was insured for $400.

Dr. Page lost a very valuable library and a large stock of Homeopathic medicines, etc. His loss is estimated at $3,500 and his insurance was $1,500.

Notwithstanding the disarrangement of Post Office matters, Postmaster Robinson and Assistant Alexander "set up shop" and had things going again a little under 8 o'clock a.m

The Post should seize this opportunity to give the Postmaster another raking down for allowing the building to catch fire.

25 YEARS AGO

Tuesday, Feb. 24, 1942.

During President Roosevelt's fireside talk to the nation the previous night, an enemy submarine fired 25 sheels — badly aimed — toward an oil field and refinery seven miles north of Santa Barbara, Calif. Witnesses said the sheels, supposedly shrapnel, exploded large volumes of dirt, frightened several horse, but hit only one well. The pumping plant and derrick were damaged, but there was no fire.

Alex Serwe, Appleton fisherman, speared a 42-pound sturgeon from Lake Winnebago when he was fishing with Mark Kueler of Stockbridge It was reported to be the fifth sturgeon taken from the lake that season and the first to be speared by an Appleton man.

Members of the Memorial Presbyterian Choir who presented "Ye Olde Tyme Choire Recytale" at the church included costumed Mrs. William D. Farnum, C. M. McEathron, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Heller and Miss Dorothy Schenck. Mrs. Earle Fraser, also in old-fashioned costume, accompanied the group.

Farm Lobby Seeking Concessions If Oleo Ban Is Withdrawn

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — In politics even as in the military campaign the strategic retreat is often a part of the responsibility of leadership and command.

Wyngaard

Such a retreat has now been ordered by the Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation, probably the most influential and representative voice of Wisconsin agriculture, as disclosed in its announcement that it will give up the fight to prevent the repeal of the state's controversial anti-margarine laws.

The decision was based on a "realistic" assessment of the legislative political climate, says that eminent realist of the lobbying row, William KasaKaitas of the Federation.

As the commander in battle sometimes is required to order a retreat in order to prevent total defeat of his forces, Mr. KasaKaitas as the alert and sensitive agent of the big federation is making what he calls "certain demands" in return for calling off his political troops on the legislative theater of battle.

MAY SALVAGE SOMETHING

The maneuver in any informed assessment of the current statehouse atmosphere is a shrewd one. The farm interests may be able to salvage something from the situation and avoid total rout.

It may, indeed, be able to salvage a good deal more by abandoning the main fight now and asking for concessions than by standing adamantly in its traditional position and asking for favors after the battle has been lost. On a straight vote on the merits of the oleomargarine embargo, as the political noses are counted in the legislature now, the farm lobby would probably show up in a weaker numerical position than ever before.

There is no longer much doubt that the last yellow margarine embargo in the country as well as the deliberately punitive tax imposed on the uncolored spread substitute are doomed to repeal in this legislature.

Yet there are many legislators uneasy about the choice before them. There are representatives of urban-dominated districts which nevertheless have some fragments of rural voters remaining. There are those who share the conviction of the professional dairy interests that the appropriation of the butter yellow color for the substitute is wrong.

MAY GET CONCESSIONS

Thus the Farm Bureau may have a chance of exacting some of the concessions that it is asking, although it is an ambitious list The federation asks for packing and labeling requirements for oleo, for the declaration in public eating places that the spread offered is margarine and not butter, that margarine be prohibited in the menus of tax-supported institutions, and perhaps most ambitious of all, that the legislature appropriate up to $5 million to assist in research and other programs of benefit to the dairy industry.

That figure no doubt was calculated on the high side, according to the time-tested rule that in politics it is always wise to reserve some trading stock. It is not likely that in the doubtful condition of the state treasury today that the legislaure will set aside such a big fund for such purposes. But even if the farmers and their allies get a half or a third of the amount, it would be a significant gain. Moreover, it would almost surely be continued indefinitely. Appropriations once authorized are rarely cut off.

It is possible to argue that the federation has offered a bargain that if accepted will be more beneficial to the dairy interest in the long run than the margarine status quo. It is perfectly evident that the effect of the state anti-margarine laws is negligible on the butter market which is essentially a national market. It is also occuring to some of the more reflective dairy spokesmen that the notoriety of the Wisconsin margarine laws in the long run may be harmful.

What About Students Taking Government Money for College?

BY WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

It transpires that the Central Intelligence Agency was not interested only in the National Students Assocciation, but also in at least a dozen other organizations, some of them connected with research activity, others with labor unions. And, it is now being hinted broadly, the CIA has

I cannot contribute, from a personal knowledge, to the lengthening of the list of CIA's beneficiaries, but I can contract that potential list by swearing, which I hereby solemnly do, that to my certain knowledge the CIA has not contributed one penny to National Review, the nation's foremost journal of anti-Communism. Which means, if we properly understand the syllogistic lingo being thrown around, that National Review has retained its "integrity," while those other publications and those organizations and radio stations have not. Only that's impossible, because National Review is conservative.

LIMITS ON CIA?

Before we are through with this uproar, we shall undoubtedly have to think through the question what should be the limits of the authority of the CIA. Right now it is interesting to ponder the planted axioms of the CIA's critics, which tell more about the attitude of America's opinion makers than the Soviet Union's MGB could do in a year's reports to a mystified Kremlin.

One of them is that true integrity somehow requires that one's attitude be left-leaning; be, by current stands, accommodationist towards the Communists. Consider the remarkable quotation from a student leader within the NSA: "This has become a nighmare for us. Our whole credibility has been based on the image that we are independent and left liberals." Examine that statement. It seems to say a) that only left liberals are internationally credible; and that b) it has now been established that the NSA is not composed of left liberals. The validity of b) rests on c) — a left liberal would not accept funds from the CIA. (Which, by the way, is surely the only government organization in the history of government organizations that any left liberal feels any qualms about taking money from.)

The statement is so congested with fatuities and no-think as to raise doubts less about the relationship between the CIA and the NSA, than about the relationship between American education and NSA. One wonders, for instance, why it is more damaging to the integrity to accept funds to expedite student travel abroad to international conferences, than it is to accept government funds with which to go to college?

Ah, but in the former case, the critic insists, there were strings attached. To which the answer is, so are there strings attached when one goes to a college that qualifies for federal money (the entire value-system is embedded in the curriculum; there have been loyalty oaths; there are standards of accomplishment set by the government; the college may not evangelize any particular religion).

GORGED WITH MONEY

And, further, that if there were strings attached by the CIA which had the effect of modifying the views of the NSA, one must assume that NSA's representatives, left absolutely free to speak their own views, would have been outright Communists. As it was, and gorged by CIA money, they were right over there in the leftist thicket. "If the CIA has been funding NSA, it's a waste of taxpayer's money . . . At our last convention, student delegates voted to abolish the draft, get out of Vietnam, and legalize marijuana."

The gist of the entire controversy seems to be that any student who goes abroad and can be said remotely to have defended United States policies is presumptively incredible — he is either dumb, or suborned. And that any student who accepts government money in order to further the national purpose of defending ourselves against our enemies is venal.

Urbane and left-minded students will accept government money, which is to say the money of their fellow citizens, only if it is unrelated to the furtherance of any corporate goal. Any suggestion that the election victories of past or present politicans are in any way related to government distribution of money to the voters is — well, is, er, undemocratic.

Suspicious Gas Odors Are Warnings to be Reported

Editor, Post-Crescent:

The gas explosion which wrecked the new school in Milwaukee makes a recent incident seem pertinent. A little less than six months ago on an early morning hike I noted a gas odor at a spot about 70 yards from a school building. I saw no vehicles that could have caused it. I made a point of returning by the same route when I again detected the same odor at the same spot. I reported it to the emergency number at the gas company. Thereafter, although I still noted the odor when I went that way, I felt assured it was not significant and might even be coming from the chimney of a neighboring house.

However, a few weeks ago when I saw workmen in an excavation at the exact spot of the odor, I was relieved to learn that they had found and corrected a leak — no more odor.

We remember learning at the time of the gas explosion at a northeast home that leaking as in the ground will follow water or sewer pipes even into homes that have no gas whatever. So it seems a sort of civic duty to report suspicious odors at the risk of some false alarms. Better a false alarm than a disaster without warning. Only the timely heeding of the gas odor warning averted tragedy in Milwaukee.

Europeans Call Negro The Typical American

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Perhaps the most ironic aspect of the whole racial conflict in America today is the fact that, to most Europeans, our Negro is the "most typical American."

Harris

I was having dinner with a group of Europeans not long ago, when the racial subject came up. All of them nodded in agreement when a Swiss gentleman remarked, "You know, we look upon the Negro as embodying most of what we call 'American characteristics.'"

What he meant by this, I found out, was that the very traits we American whites identify with Negroes are called the most distinctive'y "American traits" by Europeans.

These are — vitality, friendliness, openness, disregard for tradition, impulsiveness, generosity, a tendency toward physical violence, optimism, impatience with philosophy or theory, and lack of social polish.

"Every one of these traits, both good and not so good," said the Swiss, "are the ways in which you white Americans characterize your Negro population And they are precisely the ways in which we Europeans characterize all Americans, black, and white alike — only the Negroes seem more representative of what we call 'the American character.'"

White Americans tend to look upon Negroes as "childish," — but Europeans look upon all Americans as childish. We fear the violence of the Negro in the slums — but Europeans fear the whole Western-saloon inheritance of violence in America's white culture. We regard the Negro as crude or even primitive — but Europeans see a kind of primitive crudeness as an integral part of the whole American scene.

Now the point is not whether the Europeans are "right" or "wrong" in their estimate of our national character; perhaps there is no objective right or wrong in such matters, but only stereotypes conditioned by different cultural patterns and varying canons of taste

The point is that when we blame the Negro for certain characteristics and modes of behavior, it is possible that we are gazing at an exaggerated representation of ourselves — and nobody likes to see himself in a magnifying mirror, with all his pores enlarged a dozen times.

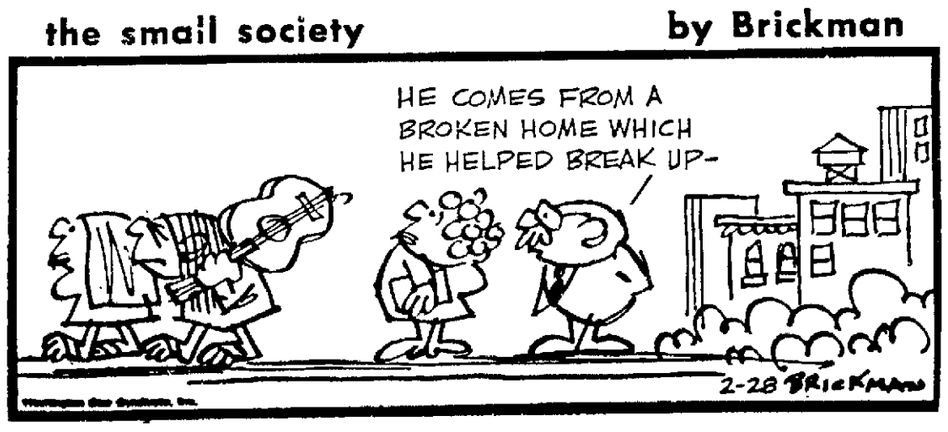

The modern Negro who calls himself a "black" and turns toward his African heritage rather than identifying with his American background is just deluding himself in seeking for such spurious roots of identity — for, in any sociologist's meaning of the word, he is more "American" in his outlook and reactions than most of his detractors, who bear far deeper marks of their foreign ancestry than he does.

Locksmith Picked To Foil Lockout Of Key Official

MT. VERNON, Ill. (AP) — Former Sheriff Dewey Barton won the race for the Jefferson county clerk's office, but he needed a locksmith to open the door.

Barton, a Republican, replaced outgoing clerk, Lester Davis, and when Davis prepared to hand over the keys he discovered he didn't have them. He left the keys in the clerk's office and it was locked.

When no key could be found to unlock the door, a locksmith managed to open it.

Statewide System

CCHE Seeks Legislation For State Educational TV

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Wisconsin will have a statewide and state run educational television (ETV) network by 1975, says Angus Rothwell, executive director of the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education (CCHE) — and it should get started by establishing its basis in this session of the Legislature, he says.

His staff has proposed to the full committee that it support legislation creating such a system, and has suggested that it back a staff - produced recommendation that the state allocate $2.5 million for the project this spring.

The proposal, which seeks creation of four transmitters to join two already in operation in Madison and Milwaukee. The new proposed transmitter sites would be in the Fox Valley area, and centered at either Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh or the University of Wisconsin - Green Bay, the Colfax area in northwestern Wisconsin, La Crosse, and the Wausau vicinity.

Commission Supervision

All would operate in conjunction with UW or state university centers in those areas, and would be under the supervision of a state educational television commission.

Also included in the proposal are two television translators in the Ashland and Platteville areas.

Cost to the state, under the proposal, would be $1,735,000, with an additional $800,000 anticipated from federal aids.

A similar proposal was made in the last session of the Legislature and scaled down to provide a smaller program immediately. Favorable action was taken in one house, but not considered in the other house before adjournment, when the bill automatically died.

Applied Emphasis

Great emphasis was placed on that proposal by the CCHE based on a belief that federal aids would not become available after the termination of a governmental aid program then rapidly drawing to a close. If Wisconsin did not use its federal share before a deadline date, the funds would be made available to all other states, the coordinating committee pointed out to the 1965 Legislature.

The belief that the federal program would die when the funds were used by participating states was based on an estimation of the costs of the Vietnam war and the effects of that spending on other federal aid programs.

Recently, however, President Johnson has specifically backed a continuation of the federal program, and the CCHE has based its cost estimates of its renewed proposal on an expectation of such assistance.

A bill introduced early in the 1967 session by Assembly assistant minority leader David Obey, D-Wausau, is based on the 1965-66 CCHE proposals, and envisions an expenditure of $4.3 million.

Obey Proposal

The Obey proposal, which was co-sponsored by many of his party members of the lower house, contains no specific assumption of federal assistance, but contains provisions for the use of federal money if it is available. The $4.3 million cost does not contain any federal funds under Obey's proposal.

Primary purpose to Obey of such a system is a closed - circuit interconnection between the higher educational institutions of Wisconsin, which would allow the televising of course work from one institution to another.

Such a purpose is contained in the new CCHE proposal, but the emphasis of the program is spread across not only the state universities and UW closed - circuit use, but also use by the state's vocational schools, elementary and secondary schools, and the general public for educational and public affairs broadcasting as well.

Accept Amendments

Obey has stated that he is willing to accept virtually any amendments to his bill that will create a state ETV system and maintain his closed circuit provisions. The Coordinating Committee proposal would do that, and the CCHE staff expects that the bill will be introduced as a substitute amendment to the Obey package if the new proposal is backed by the full CCHE on March 9.

One of the fundamental differences between the two proposals is in the administration of the two systems. Obey proposed a revitalization of the old State Radio Council, which administers the state radio network, as the overseeing body for the ETV system.

The CCHE proposal contains provisions for a new Wisconsin Educational Television Commission, made up of 21 members, as the systems guiding body.

Members of the commission would include 14 representing educational institutions and agencies, six members at large from the private community appointed by the governor, and one official representative of the Governor.

Of the 14 members representing education, three each would come from the UW, state universities, and the vocational system. A tenth would represent private colleges, and four would represent elementary and secondary education, including one from the Department of Public Instruction, two from local school districts, and one from private or parochial schools.

The final member has drawn some opposition even before the proposal is officially before the Legislature.

Arthur DeBardeleben, UW regents president, objected forcefully to the private educational participation planned when the proposal was presented to a CCHE subcommittee last week. Private schools should not have an official position on such a public body, he contended.

Representatives Backed

But the inclusion of the representatives was backed by the subcommittee, especially after it was pointed out that the private schools would use the programming made available, and that other state educational agencies — notably the Commission on Higher Educational Aids — already have such representation.

Opposition was indicated from some members of the plans and policies subcommittee, however, on the size of the total package being proposed by the CCHE staff. The conservative nature of some powerful legislative forces this session makes improbable the attaining of the full goals, said Joseph Noll of Kenosha. Sights should be set lower, he suggested. But the subcommittee backed the full $2.5 million plan, at least for the present.

Contained in that plan are provisions for:

—Channel 38 in the Fox Valley area; Channel 31, La Crosse; Channel 28, Colfax; and Channel 20, Wausau, translators near Platteville and Ashland.

—Closed circuit facilities on additional channels connecting some of the new stations and existing ones in Madison and Milwaukee and some higher educational institutions.

—Single - chanel interconnection between the UW station in Madison and a vocational school channel in Milwaukee, to allow interchange of materials.

—At initiation, origin of materials for all channels from those two stations, with eventual origin of materials from additional stations in the network.

—Possible exchange programs through interconnection of systems in the future with Channel 9 in Duluth, a Minnesota TV station.

One Time Costs

Harry Spindler, CCHE assistant director, in taking part in the presentation to the plans and policies subcommittee, pointed out that most of the major $1.6 million cost of actual equipment will be of a "one-shot" nature, as it will be spent on towers and associated equipment.

Operating costs of the network will be substantially less per year than the original request, he says.

In addition, the CCHE is looking at possible additional savings by placing their antennas on cooperating commercial towers in the proposed areas, he says.

Noll suggested that the staff study the possibility of bonding for construction costs in an attempt to lower immediate costs of the program and reduce legislative opposition as well.

Names Under Two Pictures of candidates for the Wisconsin Supreme Court were transposed in Monday's Post-Crescent. They are Harry Halloway, left, Milwaukee attorney who lives in suburban Whitefish Bay, and Judge Robert Hansen, circuit court judge in Milwaukee, right.

School Officials Prisoners Of Red Tape, Byrnes Charges

BY RANCES McKUSICK
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

WASHINGTON — Public school administrators are becoming imprisoned in federal red tape, Rep. John W. Byrnes, (R-Green Bay,) charged today during an interview.

Pointing out that this condition of servitude came as no surprise to him, the congressman said that a recent convention in Atlantic City of primary and secondary school administrators brought out complaints surrounding the federal aid to education programs to which he had objected for many years.

Byrnes said that the school superintendents complained that many Office of Education programs and anti-poverty programs duplicate each other, that a massive force for standardization was at work, and that the local school boards had little freedom of choice in operating their schools with "Uncle Sam" as their not-so-silent partner.

"Of course, red tape takes a top priority among complaints," the Green Bay congressman continued. "This produces cumbersome paper work, according to the school administrators and prevents long-range planning."

More Housing Data Sought In New London

Up-Dating Needs To Seek Federal Aid Objective of Survey

NEW LONDON — Data in addition to information from the U. S. Census Bureau is to be gathered by the New London Housing Authority for inclusion in its application to the district office in Chicago for offcial recognition and funds.

Dan J. Stoffel, the group's chairman, questioned how the material the authority had from the 1960 census could be updated. "It boils down to whether we want to continue on the basis of the information contained in the census or conduct a new survey," Stoffel said.

The 1960 census listed 913 persons over 62-years-old. To qualify for low rent housing, persons must be of retirement age, 62, or in the case of a married couple, one of the persons must be of retirement age.

Sub-standard Units

Of 410 rental units in the city in 1960, 145 were listed as substandard by the census bureau. The housing development, which would probably consist of 120 units if proposals outlined by a State Commission on the Aging representative were followed, would only replace a portion of the "sub-standard units."

Mrs. Elroy Stern and the Rev. Wesley Sharpe are to discuss the needs of the elderly with the city nurse and city ministers. M. John Huppler will contact the major employers of the city to find out what the projected needs and demands will be for housing for their employes, and Wallace Gruening is to contact real estate brokers concerning the availability of rental units in the city.

The census pointed out, and authority members agreed, that there is an acute need for more rental units in the city.

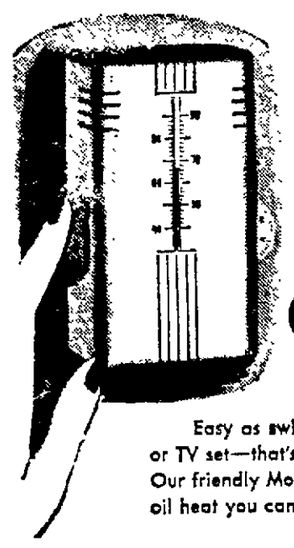

Further surveys, discussions and meetings are expected before the local authority, created in January, is ready to begin its development project.

Administration Quiet About Intensification

Second Anniversary Of Bombing Chosen For Further Stepup

by JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — It sounded a bit like February 1965. That was the time of the big explosion in Vietnam but the Johnson administration didn't make a big thing of it at the time

Now there can be no doubt this country is stepping up the war even more but the Johnson administration is very restrained about saying so.

Two years ago this month the United States really began to intensify the war against North Vietnam with bombing raids which have never stopped except for some brief holiday truces.

At that time naval vessels — the north called them U.S. vessels, the U.S. embassy in Saigon said they were South Vietnamese ships — started shelling North Vietnamese shore installations 120 miles from Hanoi.

Low Key

For weeks the administration played all this in a rather low key, until it became apparent the war had entered a new phase and bombing had become routine.

At the time the United States explained the bombing raids as retaliation for "provocations" from the north. An American airbase at Pleiku in South Vietnam had been shelled.

Over the past weekend U.S. Navy planes began mining the rivers of North Vietnam, long-range American guns began shelling the north, and the U.S Navy began shelling the North Vietnamese coast.

But at his suddenly called news conference Monday President Johnson — reminiscent of 1965 — didn't make these events sound momentous or the start of a new, stepped-up effort to force the north to the peace table

Start Talks

Yet, despite all the soft-wording throughout his meeting with newsmen, he left little doubt the war has intensified to make the north start talking about how to end it.

Asked if the weekend actions were the start of a step-up, Johnson replied: "I would say there is some activity taking place that we would not say is normal through the past weeks."

This sounded like one of the understatements of the year. Johnson continued: "I think you could, if you searched, find some comparable action here and there, some similar actions.

"I wouldn't want to put my credibility in doubt by saying it never had happened before and then have somebody do a little research and find that on occasion something had happened that was at least comparable."

A little research showed the similarity to 1965.

More Far-reaching

The President did concede the American weekend activity is "more far-reaching" than what had been happening over the past few weeks He could have said the United States had gone beyond anything it had done before.

Then came the statement which gave the meaning of the weekend.

Johnson said: "I think that each day the road we follow is a search for peace. Everything we do is in that direction. I believe that what I am doing — the course open to me now — is best calculated to bring that about . . . .

"I don't see any other alternative . . . . Our principal objective there is to provide the maximum deterrent to people who believe that aggression pays with a minimum cost to us and them."

He said this after trying to tone down his "far-reaching" phrase by saying "I don't mean to imply that these (weekend actions) are in themselves a far-reaching thing."

Cut Asked in Health Costs

the use of professional and auxiliary workers—a key factor in reducing hospital costs."

As for noncommercial television, the President said this holds out a potential promise of bringing to its audience "the excitement of excellence in every field." He said it "will not only instruct, but inspire and uplift our people."

Today, he said, educational and other noncommercial television "is reaching only a fraction of its potential audience — and achieving only a fraction of its potential worth "

Recommending enactment of a public television act of 1967, Johnson said such legislation should create the proposed Corporation for Public Television and provide it with $9 million of first-year funds.

The President said a study of an educational television network using satellites should be one of the corporation's first tasks.

He said the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare will begin experiments on the requirements for a satellite network.

'Detailed Study'

However, he said any detailed plans for satellite communications in this field "requires the most detailed and comprehensive study by the executive branch and the Congress." He said he expects congressional committees to hold hearings on "these complex issues of public policy."

The corporation Johnson proposed would be operated by a 15-member board, to be appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate

The proposed corporation and the health-cost study were two new elements in the package Johnson outlined in his lengthy message.

Many of the other recommendations represented an expansion of programs already under way

The Marine landing team was withdrawn to an amphibious ship and put ashore 14 hours later in tracked landing vehicles and helicopters.

Along South Vietnam's central coastal lowlands, a company (178 men) of the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division engaged a North Vietnamese company (136 men) seven miles northwest of Bong Son in sporadic fighting that began Monday and ended early today The U.S. troops reported killing 18 North Vietnamese while taking light casualties.

There was no announcement from U S headquarters of further mining of North Vietnam's rivers since the new step started Monday. Nor was there any report of additional U S naval bombardment of the North Vietnam coast in the expanded campaign of offshore shelling.

Committee Changes, Approves Kellett Bill

hearing the recommendations of the Kellett Commission on Government Reorganization, which had studied the problem for nearly two years.

Kellett Present

Present during the day-long deliberations was the group's head, William R. Kellett, Menasha.

Near the close of the session, Kellett, when asked to comment, said he believed the committee's amendments "would strengthen" the measure when considered by the Legislature.

The areas amended were the most deliberated and controversial in commission proceedings, he said.

But State Sen. Walter Hollander, R-Rosendale, who had tried to rush the bill in its substitute form through the committee without massive amendments, said any more changes in the measure would make it meaningless.

In consideration of a recommendation to postpone creation of a Department of Local Affairs, Hollander said, "I think if we adopt this amendment we might as well recommend this bill for indefinite postponement because it is going to be so chopped up."

Minor Changes

The meeting had been called to consider a substitute amendment making only technical and clarification changes in the proposal. The substitute was to be introduced to replace the original Kellett bills. The bill finally recommended for passage by the committee was the substitute, but only as changed by the significant amendments. Hollander had tried to get the committee to recommend the substitute without amendments through proceedural moves, but failed.

The amendments adopted recommend that:

—The proposed merger of the two resource departments take place no later than July 1, 1971, instead of the proposed 1968.

—The interim coordinating committee supervising the two separate departments, dominated by representatives of the agencies, could request the merger as soon as 1969. Proponents said the delay would allow additional planning time Voting against the measure were Sen. Robert Warren, R-Green Bay, and Assemblyman David Martin, R-Neenah, the only members of the Kellett Commission on the joint committee.

—The Department of Veterans Affairs be continued as now operating. "I'd hate to see this bill jeopardized because of problems on the floor due to the Department of Veterans Affairs," said Sen. George Borg of Delavan in explaining the move which passed by only one vote.

Continued Status

—The State Commission on Aging be given continued status in the new social services department rather than a phasing out of existence.

—The Department of Regulation and Licensing be removed from cabinet status by making its director an appointive official to be nominated by the governor for a six-year term rather than appointed to serve at the chief executive's pleasure. Continuation of regulatory policies for more than two-year terms were cited as the main reason for the change.

—The Conservation Congress be assured continued existence as a citizens' advisory group on conservation even if resource agencies are merged.

—The state budget agency be refused power to study and make recommendations to the Legislature as to the future placement of new state agencies when they are created after the proposed reorganization is completed. The budget office serves as an arm of the executive in Wisconsin.

The committee refused to recommend that:

—The Department of Transportation be placed under a three-man, full-time commission rather than a cabinet level officer as proposed.

—The proposed merger of the Health and Welfare departments be dropped

—The proposed merger of resource agencies also be abandoned, as recommended by Assemblyman George Molinaro, D-Kenosha. Said Molinaro: "I don't want to mix my ducks and my drinking water."

Grant Venue Change in Second Coppolino Trial

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Dr Carl Coppolino's trial on charges of murdering his first wife was moved Monday to Naples and scheduled to begin April 3.

Circuit Judge Lynn Silvertooth, granting a defense motion for a change of venue because of publicity in Sarasota, said he would preside at the Naples trial starting at 9 a.m.

headquarters, the newspaper said, where his superior declined to arrest them on the grounds there was insufficient evidence they were guilty of any wrongdoing.

After the Kennedy assassination, the officer said, he recognized Oswald's face and name from pictures. He said he took no action because it was widely known that Oswald have lived in New Orleans.

Last week, when Ferrie's name was prominently linked to the Garrison probe, the officer gave the district attorney his information, the States-Item said.

A typwritten note found in Ferrie's apartment after his death contained a bitter indictment of law enforcement officers, courts and American justice in general.

The first paragraph of the note, released on the day Ferrie died, referred to death as a "sweet prospect " Garrison maintains that Ferrie committed suicide, although Coroner Nicholas Chetta has ruled death resulted from natural causes—a ruptured artery in the brain.

In announcing today his final verdict in the Ferrie death, Chetta said: "This man died a natural death. There is no indication of violence of any kind—certainly not murder or suicide." Chetta said findings were negative for alcohol, arsenic, cyanides, barbiturates, depressants and central nervous system stimulants.

Tests revealed the note was typed on a typewriter found in Ferrie's cluttered apartment.

Knowles Invited to Meet With President

MADISON (AP)— Gov Warren P. Knowles is among several governors and cabinet members asked to meet March 18 in Washington with President Johnson, the governor's office said Monday.

ny, the final opinion would fill a book.

Mrs. Anderson's attorney, Carl August Wollmann, said the court decision, even without the detailed opinion, is vulnerable on a number of points. Specifically, he said, the court had refused to hear about a dozen witnesses who could have testified in Mrs. Anderson's favor on various phases of the complex case.

Mrs. Anderson has yet to enter a court in all the years of litigation and was not present for the decision today. She remained at her home in Underlengenhardt, in the Black Forest, where she lives a secluded life, admitting only a few visitors.

Split Nobility

Among the more frequent guests is Prince Friedrich Ernst of Saxe-Altenburg, the champion of her cause. She deals with her lawyer through him.

The fact that he is also the uncle of the Duchess of Mecklenburg illustrates how European nobility has been split by the case

After the court had announced its decision and recessed, Mrs. Anderson's attorney told newsmen she is only interested in being recognized as Anastasia and that she has no interest in the czarist fortune rumored to be in the Bank of England.

Mrs. Anderson claims that she was injured — not killed — by the firing squad which massacred the czar and his family at Ekaterinburg and that loyal followers of the czar cared for her wounds and smuggled her out of Russia.

Highest Paying Jobs Found in Big Cities

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Q. Where are the highest-paying jobs in the U.S.?

A. In our largest cities of at least 1,000,000 population: more specifically in the great metropolitan areas of the West and North.

No matter what your sex, color, age or years of education, the size of the city in which you work is a key factor determining the relative size of your earnings. Even within one region, earnings are largest in the biggest cities. Even within each color-sex and each age-education group, this is true.

Sylvia Porter

What's more, the pay differences according to city size are astoundingly large. As an illustration:

—The hourly earnings of employed persons in metropolitan areas of 1,000,000 or over are 25-35 per cent higher than the earnings of apparently comparable persons in small towns and rural districts.

—The pay of workers in 1,000,000 and over cities is 15 per cent higher than that of workers in 500,000 and under cities.

Earnings in the West and North are about 25 per cent higher than in the South — and one major reason for this is that there are many more big cities in the West and North.

These are the prime findings of the most comprehensive study ever made of earnings differentials by regions and city. The study, being released today, was made by Dr. Victor R. Fuchs of the National Bureau of Economic Research as a by-product of his pioneering research into productivity in the services.

You would expect pay differentials to be affected by sex, color, age, years of education and to some extent, region. But such differentials due to the size of the city alone — no matter what the region and the other factors? Why?

A fundamental explanation for the city-size differential, Fuchs suggests, could be that it reflects variations in "labor quality" — over and beyond sex, color, age, years of education.

For instance, earnings could be higher in the great cities because these offer better quality education and more on-the-job training than moderately large cities, small towns and rural districts. They could be higher because of what Fuchs calls the "selective in-migration to the big cities of more ambitious and hard-working persons." They could be higher because of the existence of surplus farm labor in small towns which in turn would reflect the tendency of surplus farm workers to move first to small towns and only after this to move on to large cities.

Living Costs Higher

Another explanation could be the easier availability of capital in the large cities, drawing to these cities the corporations which are major employers.

Still another explanation could be the fact that the stiffer cost of living in big cities puts a higher floor under city earnings.

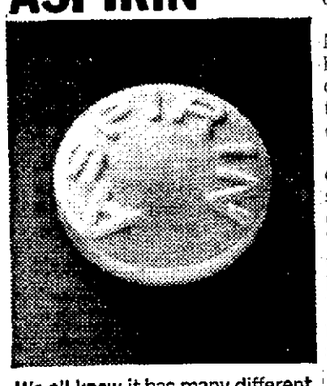

One of these factors is usually mentioned in explaining pay differentials. We blame discrimination against non-whites for the lower paychecks of Negroes in the South relative to the non-South but Fuchs argues that an alternative explanation could be that non-whites are "disproportionately of low skills," and the lower the skill level, the greater the regional differential, regardless of color.

These findings lead to some fascinating questions. To name just one: if industry is migrating to smaller cities to take advantage of lower pay scales and workers are migrating to bigger cities to get higher pay scales, will not this lead to a leveling-out in earnings over the long-term?

You may yearn for the small town, its cleaner air, its more leisurely pace and all the rest. But if it's top pay you want now, come to the city, young man, come to the city.

Kimberly Man Pays $100 Fine For Beer Sale

Gerald J. Thiel, 35, 422 E. Kimberly Ave., Kimberly, this Monday was fined $100 and costs or 48 days in jail after Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller found him guilty of selling beer to a minor.

Thiel, operator of Jerry's Lanes in Kimberly, had pleaded innocent of the charge brought following investigation by Kimberly police, but changed his plea to no contest.

Police said Thiel sold beer to a 17-year-old youth Sept. 10.

Harold Schroeder to Head Equity Co-op Credit Union Members

The instructor and pupils from Marcia's School of Dance entertained 225 Equity Co-op Credit Union members at last Thursday's annual meeting at the Darboy Club.

Harold Schroeder, Appleton, and Lawrence Brockman, Black Creek, were elected to the board of directors for three-year terms, and Ben Lodholz, Appleton, to a three-year term on the credit committee.

President Paul Nagan, Kaukauna, and treasurer, Theodore J. Schaar, Appleton, said assets increased 10 per cent in 1966 to $32,140, and 653 members have total shares of $290,162.

The credit committee reported 123 loans made in 1966 for a total of $121,164. Total loaned to members since organization is $1,444,417.

A 4½ per cent dividend was paid shareholders on Dec. 31, 1966, totaling $11,053. Interest refunds amounted to $3,833.

Lesion Describes Any Body Damage or Flaw

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please tell me what a lesion is. — Mrs. W.H.

It means damage or flaw of almost any imaginable type.

A broken bone, a cut, a wart, a sore, a bunion, a corn, a tumor, a bruise, a scratch — these and many others all are lesions.

Let's say you have an ulcer on your ankle. We refer to it as a lesion, regardless of how it got there. Or take some sort of problem involving a nerve. It may be infection, or the nerve may be pinched, or some disease may be attacking the nerve sheath. The word lesion still covers any of these.

It does not mean a disease. Measles is an example. The disease is all through the body, but each spot on the skin is a lesion.

A lesion can be as small as a pinprick, as obtrusive as a black eye, as harmless as a wart, as dangerous as a cancer, as complicated as a dissecting aneurysm or as out-of-sight as an itchy patch of athlete's foot.

It's a handy word which saves a lot of time, but you are not the only one who is a bit puzzled by the term. It's a short way of saying "the place where something is wrong."

Dear Dr. Molner: I have terrible leg cramps — in my legs, ankle and toes — and cannot sleep and am up all night. Please help me. — Mrs. E.T.

My considered advice is in my booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains." There can be more than one cause, or a combination of causes, and there are several things you can do for relief. The booklet is available for anyone. Send 20 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me, care of The Post-Crescent, for a copy.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have severe hearing loss and with the most powerful hearing aid, I can hear only close-up conversations. I have been advised by the hearing agency and an ear surgeon to have an operation to loosen the stirrup in the ear which is supposed to be anchored. It will not restore normal hearing but will greatly improve what is left.

I am past 77 and in good general health. Is such an operation likely to be successful, or is it unduly risky for health or further loss of hearing? — W.A.

At 77 and in good health, I'd go ahead with the operation. Risk to health is negligible. Chance of success is excellent. The stirrup is one of a linkage of tiny bones which transmit the sound waves. If they become locked in place, even loud noises cannot get through clearly.

Note to M.T.: With the pain you describe, and inability to raise your arm, I certainly suggest going to an orthopedist.

* * *

To learn of new treatment for this cruel and painful disease, write for Dr. Molner's booklet, "Gout — The Modern Way To Stop It." To receive a copy, write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

'Mikado' Film Coming To 2 Area Theaters

Present Day D'Oyly Carte Company in Gilbert & Sullivan Special March 15-16

Despite a remarkable imagination, lyricist W. S. Gilbert never could have conceived in 1883 that his newly-written opera "The Mikado" would one day be turned into a motion picture. Just as composer Arthur Sullivan would not have dreamed that his music would be heard coming from a theater screen.

This new Warner Bros. motion picture comes to the Viking Theater in Appleton and the Raulf Theater in Oshkosh for two days March 15 and March 16. There will be matinee and evening performances both days at both theaters.

Ticket sales open Wednesday at the box offices. Although seats will not be reserved, the number of seats sold will not exceed the capacity of the theaters.

Tremendous Success

"The Mikado" was a tremendous success when it was staged at London's Savoy Theater, although it caused a rift between the great Gilbert and Sullivan. When Richard D'Oyly Carte's superb company of singing actors presented this delightful Oriental tongue - in - cheek fantasy, Japanese art was all the rage in fashionable London. Crowds flocked to the theater to see and hear George Grossmith as Ko-Ko and Rutland Barrington as Pooh-Bah.

Now, more than 80 years later, the filmed version of "The Mikado" is being performed by today's members of the D'Oyly Carte Company. The famous group still is headed by a member of the theatrical family with Bridget D'Oyly Carte in charge.

Director Stuart Burge and the producers, Anthony Havelock - Allan and John Brabourne, determined before filming began that none of the original flavor of the opera should be lost.

Costumes the Same

The sets, by Disley Jones, have been specifically designed to preserve the magical feel of the story and the Ricketts costume designs of some 40 years ago have been revived, with each costume an exact replica, down to the last detail of embroidery. The same materials — silks, satins and trimmings — have been used, exactly as Ricketts stipulated.

The production was filmed in a London theater with the stage extended to twice its normal size in order to accommodate all the sound and lighting equipment and the three motion picture cameras. This has the advantage for the cast of retaining a stage atmosphere. The inherent technical problems of restricted space were brilliantly overcome by Burge's careful planning and the superb lighting of cameraman Gerry Fisher.

Birmingham Symphony

Utilizing cinematic techniques, the film records all the magnificent magic of the stage production performed by the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company. The music was provided by the City of Birmingham Symphony Orchestra conducted by the inimitable Isidore Godfrey, D'Oyly Carte's musical director.

For the principal singers of the Company, filming was a unique experience and one which they all enjoyed. At least four of them, John Reed (Ko-Ko), Philip Potter (Nanki-Poo), Kenneth Sandford (Pooh-Bah) and Donald Adams (The Mikado), came into the D'Oyly Carte Company with considerable experience of comedy and musical acting in the British theater.

Tall Kenneth Sandford plays the role of Poo-Bah in the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company movie production of "The Mikado," Gilbert and Sullivan favorite coming to the Viking Theater in Appleton and the Raulf in Oshkosh for two days, March 15 and 16. Here, Poo-Bah is greeted by the "three little maids from school" and their friends. Valerie Masterson plays Yum-Yum, left, Peggy Ann Jones is seen as Pitti-Sing and Pauline Wales as Peep-Bo. The Warner Bros. production is in Technicolor.

'Mini-Skirt' Analyzed on ABC Special

BY TV SCOUT

8:30-9 (Channels 11-6-9) — The Mini-Skirt Rebellion is a special which ponders the glories of kneecaps and windblown thighs. There is both humor and straightforward analysis in this fashion report which amply displays Twiggy (who is not at all ample), the 17-year-old London-born model. Also in the sweep: Jill St. John pondering the merits of a short skirt, and Chris Noel bobbing down the streets of Saigon on her recent tour of Vietnam.

6:30-7:30 (Channels 4-5) — Hermione Gingold brings some bright moments to The Girl From U.N.C.L.E., which otherwise is a bit much spoofing, as it does, a dukedom which makes its money from a casino, and a battle between cousins for control of the country.

7:30-8:30 (Channels 2-7-12) — The Red Skelton Hour is in a jolly mood with guests Terry-Thomas, the British comedian who has a gap between his teeth which is wider than the English Channel, and singer Joanie Sommers a delectable All-American. The comedy sketches involve Red as Freddie the Freeloader tangling with Terry's "Make America Beautiful" project.

8-10 (Channels 4-5) — "Visit to a Small Planet" on Tuesday Night at the Movies casts Jerry Lewis in a role that was played by Cyril Ritchard on Broadway, and that's the funniest thing about the picture. It's clumsy and heavy-handed where it should be light and charming.

9-10 (Channels 2-12: 10:30-11:30 (Channel 7) — The Tenement is another sociological report on why it's hell to be poor. There are no statistics, no mouthing politicians and no experts in this sensitive visit to nine Negro families sweating it out in rat-infested apartments in Chicago's Oakland district. Prepare yourself for the worst as the camera candidly peeks through keyholes to reveal the quiet torment of five fatherless homes: the invasion of unsuspecting newcomers moving into the tenement: and a death in the building. Gumdrop Battle Wins Contest

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — Paul Willis, a sixth-grader, won a Chamber of Commerce tall tale contest. He wrote:

"A Tory at Yorktown filled American guns with gumdrops. When the Colonists charged, gumdrops instead of bullets emerged.

"Greedy British soldiers gobbled the gumdrops and fell to the ground with belly aches.

"Cornwallis thought his men were dead and surrendered."

Youth Corps Director Named for Midwest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The selection of Richard W. Mendenhall as Midwest regional director of the Neighborhood Youth Corps was announced last week by Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz.

Mendenhall, 43, will have responsibility for corps activities in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio and Wisconsin.

The regional headquarters is in Chicago.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

True. If their relationships with their fathers have been happy and satisfying and if their fathers were admired, women frequently choose someone who is similar. If they have had unpleasant girlhood experiences, or have not respected their fathers, they may marry men who are quite the opposite. The tendency to pick a person who even looks like the father may be one reason why husbands and wives often look much alike.

Should you let your child do as he pleases?

Yes — No —

Definitely not! Only quack "psychologists" or people who confuse growth with absence of controls ever made any such suggestions. The new psychology calls for controls based upon intelligent understanding, rather than folklore and superstition. It has never advocated merely turning a child loose to do as he pleases. Such a policy can result only in raising a generation of playboys, brats and emotionally disturbed people.

If you have hemorrhoids you should read this ad

It tells about a new formula for home therapy that may well bring you long-lasting relief and comfort

If you seek more relief than you may now be getting, join the thousands of hemorrhoid (pile) sufferers now turning to new M.P.O. Developed by famous Mentholatum Laboratories, M.P.O. works in these five ways:

1. Helps ease pain faster. M.P.O. contains more medically accepted pain-relieving ingredients than the preparation you may now be using . . . to help reduce pain and discomfort.

2. Helps shrink swollen tissues. M.P.O. quickly releases the proven vaso-constrictor, Ephedrine Sulfate.

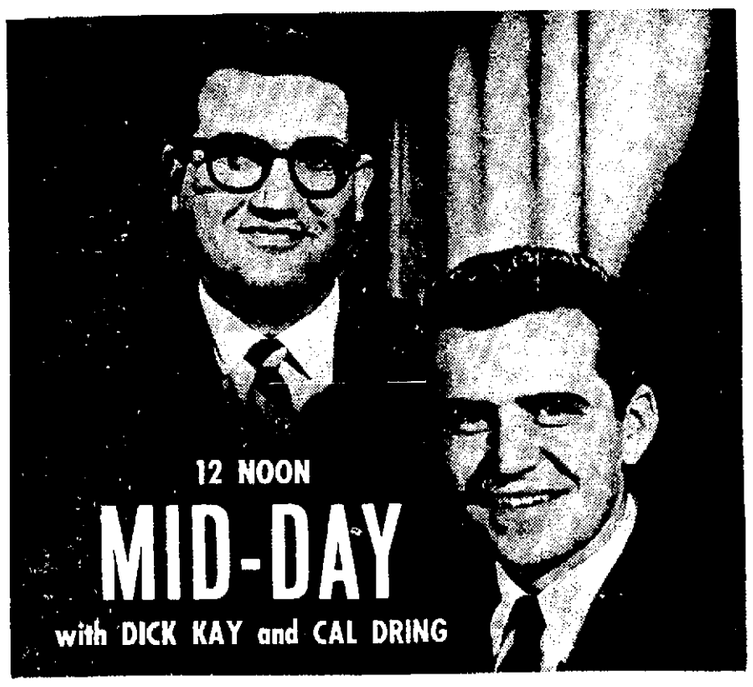

3. Helps relieve embarrassing itch. M.P.O.'s medication is homogenized for faster absorption, faster action.

4. Helps make relief last longer. M.P.O.'s more temperature-stable base holds medication in place for prolonged action.

5. Helps fight danger of infection. Proven germ-killer, Hexachlorophene, combats bacteria.

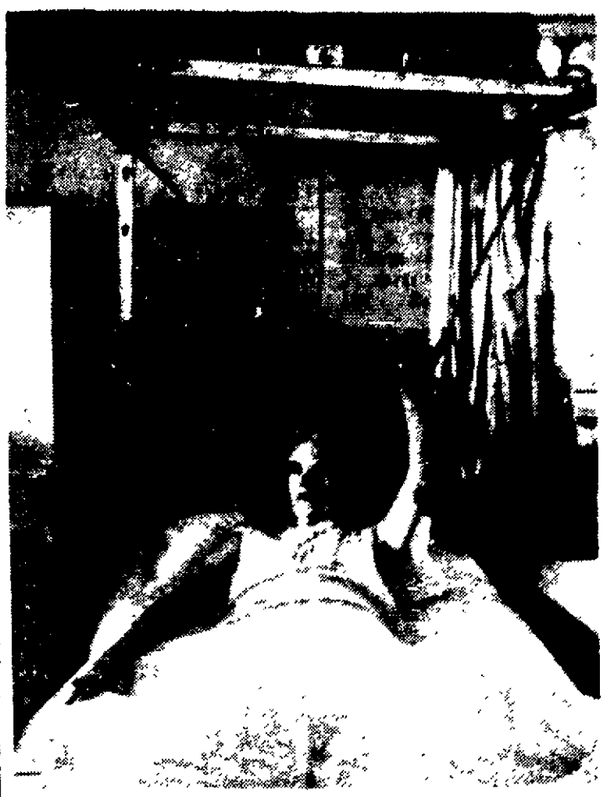

Test it yourself for the next three days. If not satisfied that M.P.O. helps you more than the preparation you're now using, return unused portion for full refund. Available in stainless ointment or suppositories at all drug counters.

A Registered Nurse Who Was Crippled by rheumataid arthritis uses a trapeze to move in and around her bed in a New York hospital. Medical authorities agree that with methods like those now being used by Mrs. Josephine Griffin and other patients, crippling and deformity can be prevented in most cases. (AP Wirephoto)

Anatomy of Affliction

Rheumatoid Arthritis Not Always Crippler

By DR. GLEN W. MCDONALD
Written for Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most people with rheumatoid arthritis don't have to be crippled or deformed. This was the key conclusion that came out of a recent meeting of experts in the field.

The surgeon general's workshop on prevention of disability in arthritis made a number of recommendations which will lead to better treatment and care of the arthritic patient. As is usually the case, not all the experts agreed on all the recommendations.

On one point, however, all the authorities agreed: With methods in use right now, early treatment of arthritis can prevent crippling and deformity in most cases

What it is

In this series we will talk about what arthritis is, how its crippling effects can be avoided, what methods your doctor uses to control it, how you can help your doctor help you, and some of the things scientists are finding out about the causes of arthritis.

You've probably seen the woman in her 30s so crippled by arthritis that she's confined to a wheel chair, or the 40-year-old man with arthritis who can just barely hobbie around with the aid of canes or crutches. These people represent a triple tragedy:

—The individual at the peak of his earning years, or at the height of her family responsibilities, now completely dependent on others.

—They are part of the $3 6-billion drain — in cost of care and treatment as well as lost wages — that arthritis puts on the American economy each year.

Early Care

—And the greatest tragedy: chances are that they need not have been crippled at all.

No matter what you may have heard, most patients with rheumatoid arthritis who see their physicians early in the course of their disease can avoid crippling and deformity. Even the relatively few patients more seriously affected can, with proper care, retain enough function in their joints to remain useful human beings.

But remember: the key is early treatment. The situation is rarely hopeless: physicians can do impressive feats of restoring function even in neglected and already crippled patients. This salvage job, though, is a difficult and expensive process, and the results can't match those of early treatment.

The report of the surgeon general's workshop pointed out the pressing need in arthritis, as in most chronic diseases, is for more diagnostic and treatment facilities, for more opportunities for family doctors to get post-graduate training, for more trained specialists, for more physical therapists, nurses and medical social workers.

Joint Inflamation

If you think you have arthritis, you can save yourself a lot of needless pain by seeing a physician early. There's another important reason for seeing a doctor early.

Not every aching joint is rheumatoid arthritis "Arthritis" refers to joint inflammation. This inflammation, with the attendant aches and pains, may also be due to gout, or infection, or to injury.

There are many forms of arthritis, and many more forms of rheumatic diseases. Telling these various conditions apart is not always easy, even for the skilled physician. Trying to diagnose your own aches and pains, then, might very well mean avoiding a quick and relatively simple treatment to clear up your trouble.

The rheumatic diseases, according to household interview reports, affect about 13 million Americans. These diseases take in all conditions that affect the musculoskeletal system, including the various forms of arthritis. Rheumatism itself is a general term indicating aches and pains in the muscles, tendons, joints, bones.

Systematic Disease

Rheumatoid arthritis affects more than three million Americans, and is the most common cause of crippling and deformity in this group of diseases Though the most damage is done to joints, rheumatoid arthritis is a systematic disease, affecting many parts of the body. The patient is often run down, weak, and has lost weight.

Another common form of arthritis, degenerative joint disease (osteoarthritis), is associated with aging. It causes discomfort, but doesn't usually cripple. There are about 90 other conditions which are considered forms of arthritis, but most of them are relatively rare.

Because rheumatoid arthritis makes people look — and feel — old, it's often thought of as a disease of the aged. It's not. It attacks people in the prime of their lives — in their 30s and 40s. Even very young children are sometimes affected. Women are affected three times as frequently as men.

Emotional Factor

No avenue is being left unexplored in the search for the cause of arthritis. Scientists are studying everything from the biochemistry of joint cartilege to the emotions of the arthritis patient. It's well known that emotional stress can make an arthritis condition flare up, but can emotional factors have any role in the actual cause of the disease?

Some investigators feel that arthritis patients have a definite personality pattern. In addition to the depression you'd expect along with a painful disease, the patients have a "controlled" personality: they get angry at a lot of things, but they don't permit themselves to show this anger. Other factors noted are dependency and passivity — not seeming to care.

If most arthritics show these personality factors, is this merely another effect of the disease? Or is there a personality pattern that goes along with susceptibility to arthritis? This won't be an easy question to answer, but it is being studied.

Next: treatment.
